Body of Shirley Evans, Found Buried in a Cave Dug By Child's Friends

Mother of Girl, Missing Since Friday, Breaks Into Frenzied Weeping When Husband Breaks News To Her Today.

UNDER TON OF SOIL

Search of Thousands Ends When Two Laborers Find the Body Against Concrete Wall.

By PAT McGRADY
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

New York, May 20 (AP).—Eight-year-old Shirley Evans, missing from her home in Jackson Heights, Queens, since last Friday, was found dead today 250 yards from her home. Her body was buried beneath a ton of earth in a cave she and playmates had dug in an excavation in the rear of her home.

The discovery ended a two-day search by police, Boy Scouts and neighbors, who beat nearby swamplands and reedgrown lots in a fear that the child had been slain.

The body was uncovered after ten minutes digging after a neighbor, Taylor Putney, Jr., had recalled the children's cave. His own son, Taylor, six, had helped in the digging.

Putney, teacher of history in New York University, has an apartment in the same building occupied by the Evans, at 82-16 34th avenue, Jackson Heights, Queens. Today he urged another search of the excavation, formerly a vacant lot used by the children as a playground.

Caught in Landslide

District Attorney Charles P. Sullivan of Queens county also said the girl in all likelihood died in a landslide. He said, however, search for a possible kidnaper and assailant will continue.

"On Saturday," said Putney, "When we learned of Shirley's disappearance, we didn't dream she would be found so close to here. However, I urged the policemen to dig about the foundation. They did to some extent, but of course without success. I worried throughout Sunday and today I went to the foundation contractor and asked him if his men had filled in the children's cave.

"The contractor, Lawrence DiGiovanni, immediately put two men to digging. In ten minutes, after these two—Jimmy Gesuele and Nick Giovanni—had turned about a ton of earth the body was found. It lay pressed against the cement, hunched over as if struck without warning." Romeo Felligara, another workman, aided in finding the body.

Mother Breaks Down

The child's mother, Mrs. Pauline Evans, was dressing when notified of the discovery. Her husband, William Evans, told her the news. She broke into frenzied weeping, and it required the efforts of her husband and her mother, Mrs. Mark Biery, Allentown, Pa., to care for her.

"I want to go out there," she cried wildly, "I want to do something."

Comforted by the others, she regained her composure, but she repeatedly broke into incoherent references to a negro watchman.

"If it was an accident," she cried, "Why did that man wave a brick at me."

She pressed for details of the finding of the body, how deeply she was buried and how she lay.

The father, composed, nevertheless betrayed incredulity at the news.

"It is true?" he asked of all who came to the tiny three-room apartment. "Did you see her?"

Bulldog Depressed

Shirley's pet bulldog, who sprang to the door whenever it opened during the two-days hunt for the child, moped about the house.

The Evans family, far from wealthy, had doubted that their child had been seized for ransom. A strange man who had, a day before Shirley's disappearance, terrified her playmate, Elaine Halstead, was suspected of having attacked her. The Evanses remained optimistic, however, according to a neighbor, Mrs. W. C. Bickroy, who attended Mrs. Evans over Sunday.

Gross Discharged Today

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 20 (AP)—Frederick Gross, 42, bookkeeper who was charged with murder after his wife and four children died mysteriously of poisoning, was discharged today in Brooklyn homicide court. The $26-a-week bookkeeper was discharged by Magistrate John D. Mason on the application and request of District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan. Expressionless and calm, Gross showed no effect after his weeks in jail. When the court discharged him he murmured, "Thank you very much."

Bitter Campaign For Legislative Leadership of State Underway

Republican State Chairman Eaton Starts "Harmony" Tour of State—Democratic Chieftains Open Drive Tonight In Fallsburg, Sullivan County — New Speculation Over Gubernatorial Candidate For 1936.

Albany, N. Y., May 20 (AP).—The old Republican bugaboo—the "Old Guard" versus "Progressives"—rose again today as leaders of both parties primed their heavy guns for further cannonading along New York state's political front.

As Republican State Chairman Melvin C. Eaton left his Norwich home for a "harmony" campaign tour of the state, William Ziegler, Jr., former G. O. P. state committee treasurer, brought the "Old Guard" issue to the front again.

In New York city, he announced a statewide committee has been formed with the objective of electing "Progressive Republicans" to the State Assembly and as delegates to the national convention in 1936.

Meanwhile, chieftains of the Democratic party moved toward Fallsburg, a Sullivan county village where a Jefferson Day dinner tonight will touch off the Democratic Assembly campaign in southeastern New York. Postmaster General James A. Farley, state and national chairman; former Governor Alfred E. Smith and Lieut. Governor M. William Bray are slated to speak.

To Tour 62 Counties

Eaton plans to tour the state's 62 counties to "talk things over with legislators, leaders and anyone who has any ideas," in connection with the G. O. P.'s drive to regain control of the State Assembly, taken over by the Democrats for the first time in 22 years last fall.

Zeigler and former Republican State Chairman W. Kingsland Macy were ousted from leadership last fall by the Eaton faction described by them as "the Old Guard group" and since then the keynote of the G. O. P. has been "harmony within the party."

"From the hundreds of letters I have received," Zeigler said in a letter to members of the new Progressive committee, "I can assure you that the Republicans of this state are determined that there shall be an end to the Old Guard leadership.

"One of the best methods of achieving this is to see that Progressive Republicans are nominated for the Assembly this fall."

Predicts Victory

On the eve of his tour, Eaton repeated his prediction the Republicans will recapture the Assembly this fall, and declared that the G. O. P. "battlecry of war has been sounded in the state and nation."

The state chairman's first visit will be in Rochester, where he will confer with Donald Dailey, Monroe county leader, after which he will go to Buffalo for two days and thence to Lockport and Medina, Niagara county.

He expects to take time off from his tour on May 28 to attend a state executive meeting in New York city.

Both parties already have launched the earliest and most bitter campaigns for legislative leadership in history of the state.

Governor Herbert H. Lehman fired the first volley in his party's drive two weeks ago in a fireside chat in which he lauded the achievements of the legislature.

Republican Assembly Leader Irving M. Ives responded a week later by the same method, criticizing the Democrats for taking entire credit for the legislative program and calling for "an end to dictatorship and ruthless public-be-damned" methods, he said were used by the state and national administrations.

Speculation on Lehman

The place of Governor Herbert H. Lehman in the 1936 state and national political picture stirred new speculation on Capitol Hill today following published reports that he "determinedly is not a candidate for reelection."

The latest reports, published today by the New York Times in a special dispatch, assert that Democratic state leaders have started a quiet survey of possible gubernatorial candidates for 1936.

No official comment was forthcoming on the bill but it was said by certain observers that the governor, despite previous announcements that he plans to retire after his present term expires, more than likely will be the official Democratic standard bearer in 1936.

One group contends the governor will change his mind in deference to the wishes of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. It is said that danger of party strife during the 1936 presidential campaign will play a major part in the governor's final decision.

The other school of thought maintains the governor feels that by 1936 he will have spent eight years in Albany as lieutenant governor and governor and his health will not permit two more years in the political arena.

Successor Discussed

The Times says that of those mentioned as a possible successor Postmaster General James A. Farley and Mayor John Boyd Thacher of Albany are prominently discussed. Others given consideration, the Times adds, include Robert H. Jackson of Jamestown, now with the treasury department, Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., and Conservation Commissioner Lithgow Osborne.

Kurdt Gives Advice On Control of Tent Worms

At the office of the Ulster County Farm Bureau today, Albert Kurdt, manager, spoke of the so-called tent caterpillar plague as easy to control, saying the leaf-destroying caterpillars could be exterminated by the use of common poisons.

"Sraying the trees," he said, with 2½ to three pounds of arsenate of lead mixed with 100 gallons of water would destroy the caterpillars, or any other of the common poisons known as Paris green or calcium arsenate."

However, if not destroyed, the caterpillars eat the foliage, stripping the trees, mostly the fruit bearing variety, of their leaves. In most cases they do not harm the fruit. Cherry trees especially attract the tent caterpillars.

Kingstonians Named On G. O. P. Committee

Twenty-one Kingstonians and Chauncey Freer of Port Ewen are among those listed on the "Statewide Committee of Staunch Republicans", announced Sunday by William Ziegler, Jr., chairman of the progressive Republican committee.

The Kingstonians are Fred Lemister, Peter Manion, Herbert C. Myers, Thomas Moore, Charles Nestell, Walter S. Riel, Clarence Robertson, E. E. Sheer, Anthony Thiel, A. C. Tongue, LeRoy Brown, Frank Burr, George Caddy, Harry S. Conklin, E. E. Craw, Edward Hauptmann, J. C. Heybruck, W. J. Kelly, Chauncey Lane, Edgar Lawrence, W. H. Lebert.

Mr. Ziegler's statement was in the form of a letter to the members of the new Progressive Republican State Committee. Mr. Ziegler's letter stated:

"You are hereby notified of your appointment to the Republican Progressive State Committee of New York. Each passing day convinces me more of the need of such a committee, and the appeal of this movement to the voters of the state. Our duty is to assist in freeing the Republican party from control of the Old Guard factions, the domination of which has meant defeat, disaster and disgrace to the party in the past fourteen years.

"The Old Guard group is not a new one. It is identical, partly in personnel, and all in principle, with the group of selfish self-seekers who have brought our party to the lowest level of its history in this state. It is as obdurate today as it was twenty-five years ago. Time has brought only added boldness and greater indifference to the wishes of the hundreds of thousands of honest men and women who still adhere to the Republican party, because of the great idealist leaders and traditions of the past, and in spite of the shame of the present.

"From the hundreds of letter that I have received I can assure you that the Republicans of this state are determined there shall be an end to the Old Grard leadership. One of the best methods of achieving this is to see that Progressive Repubicans are nominated for the assembly this fall. We can begin our crusade in no better way than by eliminating from the halls of the legislature those who are subservient to special interests and special political principles.

"It is not too early for us to begin to prepare for the election of delegates to the national convention in 1935. Unless that convention is dominated by Progressive Republicans the people will not listen to the uprotests from our party or any suggested program of reform.

"I hope the members of the Progressive Republican State Committee will organize as minutely as is possible in their various counties that we may have an adequate representation of Progressive in the next assembly and a Progressive Republican delegation in 1936 to the Republican National Convention".

Rochester Attorney Killed

Rochester, N. Y., May 20 (AP)—Arthur G. Dutcher, 55, member of the law firm of Dutcher and Dutcher and brother of the late County Judge Frederick L. Dutcher, was shot and killed in his downtown office this morning by a negro who committed suicide after fatally wounding the attorney. The negro was identified as Ross Ramse, 28. A member of Dutcher's office staff said the negro was facing an assault charge in county court today and that Dutcher had been his attorney.

Crazed Movie Operator Caused Counter Thrill as Maxim Gorky Crashed

Soviet Pilot Describes How Stunt Flyer Hit Huge Plane and How Hysterical Passenger Choked Him.

FLIGHT WARNING

Rybushkin Said He Heard One of Gorky Pilots Warn Man Who Caused Disaster.

Moscow, May 20 (AP).—A desperate battle in a motion picture plane accompanying the Maxim Gorky at the time of Saturday's disaster, was disclosed today as having almost caused a second accident.

The pilot of the smaller plane, V. Rybushkin, said that after a stunting aircraft had crashed into the Gorky, world's largest land plane, a motion picture operator lost his head, leaped upon him and attempted to strangle him and pull him away from the controls.

"I lost command of my ship, it went into a spin, and there was nothing for me to do but strike my companion in the face," the pilot said. "This treatment finally calmed him and he slumped into his seat, remaining still until I managed to get out of the spin and land."

No Pictures Published

It was not disclosed whether the operator filmed the crash in which 49 persons lost their lives before he became panic-stricken, but no pictures of the disaster have been published. The official motion picture agency declined to say whether it had obtained any pictures.

Rybushkin said he heard Ivan Mikhaeff, one of the Gorky pilots, warn Pilot Blagin, who was operating the craft which caused the crash, against stunting before the planes took off.

"Don't try any loops," Mikhaeff was said to have admonished. "You would certainly crash into my ship."

Blagin, offended, was described as retorting, "I am not a child; I have been an aviator 15 years."

"Blagin flew to the right of the Gorky and I was 50 meters to the left," Rybushkin continued. "He had been ordered to accompany the Gorky to show the contrast in the size of ships for a film we were taking.

Barrel Rolls

"After the Gorky completed a short flight and as we were returning to the field, Blagin began making barrel rolls. I drew farther away and ascended above the two ships. Then Blagin began looping.

"Coming out of the second loop, he lost speed and crashed into the Gorky's right wing near the motor mounted above the fuselage. Apparently he crashed into oil tanks because a quantity of black smoke came from the Gorky.

"The Gorky pilots must have cut their motors immediately, but the ship continued to be carried forward by momentum for perhaps 10 or 15 seconds. Then the small plane fell away in pieces. The Gorky's right wing fell off and then the tail part of the fuselage buckled and fell away.

Flew Over Scene.

"The rest of the plane turned on its back, continued forward for a moment, and then plunged to earth. It crashed into some trees before hitting the ground.

"I flew over the scenes with my eyes glued to the earth. I was paying no attention to the movie operator. Suddenly he leaped upon me from the rear and got a strangle hold upon my throat. He tried to pull me away from the controls."

The bodies of most of the victims of the Gorky disaster have already been cremated and the urns containing their ashes placed on display in the Labor Union House in the center of the city, which in czarist days was the club for the nobility.

This afternoon they will be deposited at the monastery of the New Virgin where Peter the Great imprisoned his sister, Sofia. Victims whose relatives are opposed to cremation will be buried in the same place.

Lawrence Funeral To Be In Keeping With Wish Of Famed Arab Leader

Burial Will Be Beside Graves of His Manservant's Parents and the Rites Will Be Very Simple Ones.

DIED A POOR MAN

George Bernard Shaw Suggests That Britain Bury Hero in Westminster Abbey.

Wool, Dorsetshire, England, May 20 (AP)—Messages from many lands poured into this rural community today expressing sorrow at the death of the colorful "Lawrence of Arabia."

Despite his acclaim throughout the empire, the funeral of Col. Thomas E. Lawrence, who emerged from hazardous wartime adventures only to be fatally injured in a cycling accident, will be extremely simple in keeping with his wish.

It will take place tomorrow in the village church at Moreton, near the cottage where Lawrence sought seclusion under his adopted name, T. E. Shaw.

Only a few friends, government representatives and members of the family will attend the rites. Burial will be beside the graves of Mr. and Mrs. Knowles, the parents of his manservant and friend, Pat Knowles.

The funeral arrangements ban flowers and official mourning. It may be that there will not even be military honors for the man credited with assuring almost single-handedly the success of Great Britain's Near Eastern campaign in the World War.

Lawrence's death occurred at 8 a. m. (3 a. m. Eastern Standard Time) yesterday after every medical resource had failed to revive him from the coma in which he had lain since his skull was fractured in the cycle accident a week ago.

Died Poor, Says Friend.

London, May 19 (AP)—"Lawrence of Arabia" died a poor man, it was disclosed tonight, although single copies of his book, "The Seven Pillars of Wisdom", which he condensed into the famous best seller, "Revolt in the Desert", have sold as high as $20,000.

One of his last letters was disclosed to The Associated Press by the recipient, Thomas W. Beaumont, who was attached to an armored car squadron commanded by "Lawrence" during the World War.

In it Lawrence wrote:

"On March 12 (1935) I become a private citizen and shall have the honor and difficulty of paying for myself. My savings are on the short side, but if there is anything left for traveling expenses you will see me at Dewsbury.

"Can you fancy me with a long beard, wearing gaiters and talking about turnips? When you answer this forget the 'Colonel' and the rest of it. I am a very plain sort of creature now.

"T. E. SHAW".

"Lawrence" deliberately deprived himself of the chance to make a tidy fortune from his book, which, by the execution of the so-called "guillotine clause" he had with his publishers, he withdrew from sale after it had realized the exact sum of money he needed to recoup his financial losses on the "Seven Pillars of Wisdom".

He described "Revolt in the Desert" as a "rotten and dishonest thing, deliberately produced by myself to sell 30,000 copies to pay my overdraft."

His original work, known as "Seven Temples," was four times longer in the first version than the "Seven Pillars". He began to write it in 1919. Returning from his celebrated exploits in Arabia Lawrence lost his manuscript in a railway station. He wrote it again in half a million words and then cut that in half for the privately printed 107 copies which sold at $150 each.

The book created an immediate furore, and, in his own words, he "prostituted" himself by cutting it in half again and issuing it as "Revolt in the Desert," which was selling by the tens of thousands when he ordered its sale stopped.

Durban, South Africa, May 18 (AP).—George Bernard Shaw expressed his feelings today upon the death of "Lawrence of Arabia" thus:

"What about Westminster Abbey?"

Shaw said "his country, which refused to give him a small pension, owes him at least a stone."

15-YEAR-OLD GIRL DIES TRYING TO ENTER HER HOME

New York, May 20 (AP)—A 15-year-old girl, locked out of her home, swung to her death when she tried to enter her bedroom from the roof by means of an old piece of clothes line.

The girl, Isabelle Kruse, returned from a party at 2:30 a. m. yesterday to find the door locked. Her father, Louis Kruse, had warned her not to stay out after midnight.

Isabelle decided she could reach her room from the roof of the three-story building in which she lived. She tied a piece of clothesline to an iron pipe, swung over the side of the building and made her way slowly down to her window six feet below.

The clothesline was worn thin, however, and broke from the sharp edge of the roof. The girl crashed to a concrete pavement 50 feet below and died of a fractured skull.

Desiano Sent to Matteawan State Hospital For Insane

Was Indicted For First Degree Murder In the Shooting of His Brother-in-Law, Peter Carofano, at Marlborough.

DECLARED INSANE

Physicians Testify That Examination Disclosed The Fact Defendant is Mentally Disordered.

Philip Desiano, indicted for murder, first degree, for the shooting of his brother-in-law, Peter Carofano, at Marlborough last December, was committed to Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane this morning by County Judge Frederick G. Traver after a hearing in county court.

Dr. Leo J. Palmer, warden at the Wallkill Medium Security Prison, and Dr. H. S. Ferguson of Marlborough gave medical testimony to the effect that Desiano was suffering from mental troubles at the time he shot his brother-in-law and that he was not legally sane now. Their testimony was based on examinations made of the defendant since he has been committed to the county jail. These examinations were held at the direction of District Attorney Cleon B. Murray, under provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, following certain information which Mr. Murray received after the indictment of defendant. This information was that Desiano had been committed to the Middletown State Hospital back in 1927 but had never actually been sent to the institution as he disappeared before the commitment was signed and before he was apprehended. That commitment was made following application of Marie Desiano, wife of defendant, now deceased.

Dr. Palmer testified that his examination disclosed the fact that the defendant was suffering from a mental disorder which caused him to become moody and have spells when he was not responsible for his acts. He said that he believed the defendant was suffering from one of these spells when he committed the act last December and that the defendant felt his act was justified. This idea was a common one among people suffering from this type of mental disorder. The doctor said Desiano comprehended what he had done but in his distorted mind believed his act was a just one.

Suffering From Mental Disorder

Dr. Ferguson testified he had been one of the physicians who had examined Desiano in April of 1927 and that at that time the defendant was suffering from a mental disorder. The commitment papers were signed on April 28, 1927, but the defendant disappeared and was never actually sent to Middletown. Dr. Ferguson said he believed the defendant was actually and definitely insane at the time of the shooting and that he had not been mentally responsible for his actions. In this particular type of insanity he said the person believed their actions were justified and this had been Desiano's belief. In connection with his present actions, on examination the doctors also considered the case history and also the facts revealed by the Troopers and other persons who investigated the case.

Assemblyman J. Edward Conway and George Rush, who were assigned as counsel by the court appeared in behalf of the defendant and Assistant District Attorney N. LeVan Haver appeared for the district attorney's office.

Marlborough Residents Testify.

On behalf of the defendant several residents of Marlborough who had known Desiano for several years were sworn.

Angelo Avella said Desiano had boarded at his house for 11 months at the time he was married. He told the witness he had been in the war and had been gassed. He also complained of noises in his head and said that the artillery fire had injured him and that he could still hear the guns being fired. The defendant had always acted nervous and had always had a gun.

Patsy Festa testified Desiano had worked for him and said the defendant complained of head pains and noises and stated that he had been gassed in the war while in the army or navy. He said the defendant was moody and acted queer at times. He told of one time when the defendant was splitting wood and was using an iron wedge. He struck the iron wedge with the blade of the ax until the ax was broken despite the warnings of his employer. Festa said Desiano complained of noises in his head from the war.

Found Defendant Moody.

William Froemel said he had known defendant about nine years and lived next door neighbor at the time the crime was committed. He said he talked to Desiano on the morning the crime was committed and Desiano acted queer and mumbled to himself as he walked downtown with the witness. He said he found Desiano moody and at times he had seen him walking up and down the street by his home at 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning mumbling to himself. Desiano said he had been gassed in the war while in the Italian navy. He also complained of noises in his head from the guns of the war when he was in the army and he asked the witness whether his head ever bothered him from shooting cannon. Desiano, he

Bonus Committee Files Arguments For Measure

Washington, May 20 (AP)—In an effort to forestall a certain presidential veto, the House Bonus Bill Steering committee today presented to President Roosevelt a 12-page argument for the Patman currency inflation bonus bill but Mr. Roosevelt gave no indication of any change in his determination to reject the measure as forcibly as possible.

Instead, the chief executive set aside the afternoon to put the finishing touches on his veto message.

Representative Patman (D. Tex.), author of the bill, accompanied the Steering committee to the White House and outlined the points in the mimeographed statement left with the President.

It began with the declaration that two points could be shown:

"1. That each veteran who holds an adjusted service certificate is entitled to an amount at this time equivalent to the full face or maturity value of the certificate, although it is payable January 1, 1945.

"2. That such payment can be made without detriment to the country and without impairing in any way a sound monetary system."

LITVINOFF URGES PEACE IN CHACO BY MEDIATION

Geneva, May 20 (AP)—Maxim Litvinoff of Russia urged settlement of the Chaco war through mediation, keeping the League of Nations covenant intact, as the League's special assembly met today to consider the South American conflict.

The Soviet commissar of foreign affairs, who is presiding, opened the deliberations with a tribute to the late Marshal Joseph Pilsudski of Poland.

The League Council, also called into session today, did not immediately reach the Italo-Ethiopian dispute, but recommended abolition of control exchange transactions and modification of clearing compensation agreements to permit normalization of international trade.

France Strengthening North Sea Frontiers

By CHARLES FOLTZ.

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press)

Paris, May 20.—France was reliably reported today to be reinforcing her sea frontiers as well as her outposts on land, and to be quietly moving her naval strength toward the North Sea from the Mediterranean.

Last fall France's west coast fleet consisted of one cruiser, two divisions of destroyers, and a squadron of submarines. Since November there have been added one battleship, two new destroyers and four torpedo boats.

In addition 25 submarines have been returned to the fleet, including one which is the largest in the world.

The submarine squadron has been put under the command of a rear admiral who operates from the depot ship Jules Zerma.

Cruisers of the First, or Mediterranean Squadron, are scheduled to meet the Second, or Western Seaboard Squadron, for the June maneuvers off the Moroccan coast. The battleship Bretagne will leave Toulons to participate in the exercises, while the Jules Zerma will join the Atlantic fleet.

Observers say that the Mediterranean squadron will visit the Atlantic squadron at Brest in July and may leave part of its strength behind when it returns to the Mediterranean.

The move corresponds with France's action in transferring thousands of troops from the Italian frontier to her fortifications on the German border after the Reich announced her rearmament policy and Franco-Italian friendship was sealed in the Rome accord.

Within the past six months, the navy's second squadron, which is responsible for protection of the coast from the North Sea to the Gulf of Gascogne, has been more than doubled.

There are indications that the strength of the squadron will be still further augmented after the naval maneuvers off Morocco the first two weeks in June.

Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary Meeting on Friday

Mrs. D. N. Secore was elected president of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. at their May meeting held on Friday afternoon. She was escorted to the chair by Mrs. George H. DuBois, who has been the very efficient president for the past two years.

The devotions were in charge of Mrs. William A. Longyear, a former president of the auxiliary. She gave a most interesting account of life in Arabia, according to letters from a friend who is a medical missionary or nurse at a Standard Oil Hospital there. Girls are married at the age of 10 years and the life of children and women is a hard one. Mrs. Longyear read the 18th Chapter of Matthew to show the difference between Christ's estimate of children and the slight regard in which they are held in Arabia.

Mrs. George DuBois reported over 300 served at the banquet of the Mendelssohn Club served last Friday evening by the auxiliary.

A rising vote of thanks was given to Mrs. D. N. Secore for the management of the meals connected with the Y. M. C. A. drive and the banquet.

Mrs. Secore in turn thanked the women who had helped in the dining room and kitchen so faithfully during the drive and for the banquet.

It was decided to hold the postponed rummage sale on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week, May 22, 23 and 24, probably at 556 Broadway. Mrs. George DuBois and Mrs. Irving Scott were appointed chairmen. People having contributions to the sale may call either of these women or the Y. M. C. A., phone 1-100.

Mrs. C. E. OLD MINING TOWNS ARE STIRRING ANEW

New Gold Rush in Far West On in Full Force.

San Francisco.—Again this spring, on the heels of the rise of gold prices, dreamy-eyed adventurers; lanky, gnarled veterans of the Klondike; miners and clerks, gamblers and promoters, are following the come-hither look of Lady Luck. Ghost towns dating back to the West's beginnings are stirring anew after a Rip Van Winkle slumber. Abandoned mines are suddenly heaving and raucous, as prospectors thrust down new shafts. The new gold rush, which started last year, is now on in full force.

Scalp-hungry Indians are no longer the chief menace to the gold seekers. Agonizing death in some sun-parched desert is a remote peril. But much of the old color and drama has enlivened the Klondike, the wide, open West and points South.

Once More Wide Open.

Casual, gold-itchy houris, spiritual descendants of Diamond Lil and Lady Lou, are drifting into the newly staked mining camps. Saloons and gambling halls are once more wide open, and while bridge and poker are more frequently played among the miners, an occasional game of faro is not rare. Men are perhaps less quick on the trigger, but the professional card sharp, the mine salter, the con man has come back into his own. And sudden disappearances and mysterious deaths are reported from time to time along the Colorado river and west of the Pecos.

Almost since the first day that President Roosevelt set a premium on newly-mined gold there has been a steady revival in the old gold camps.

Carl Dunrud, a Kirwin "dude rancher," 60 miles southeast of Cody, Wyo., recently bought machinery for the reopening of mines dormant for 30 years.

In the hills near Baboquivari peak, Ariz., the Magma Copper company is sinking shafts in ancient Spanish mines at Indian Oasis. In the old days fortunes in ores were carted away by Spanish conquistadores.

Indian Oasis has a miniature gold rush all its own for the Magma company has options on 35 claims which have not been operated in 50 years. More than 500 men are grubbing in old tunnels and abandoned diggings which haven't known the echo of pick and spade in decades.

Gold in Them Hills.

Ward Elmore, eighty-year-old soldier of fortune, swears there is an El Dorado in the hills of northern California. His story started a new horde of gold seekers rushing from San Francisco.

Placer mining is widespread today in California, Nevada and New Mexico.

One of the most important developments is the remining of the Almaden, oldest and most historic mine in the West.

Even in far-off Alaska the rediscovery of pay placer gravel has been reported in the vicinity of Ninilchik, which dates back to the time of the Russian occupation. When Alaska became American property various mining groups dug there with varying degrees of success. A few weeks ago Ted Crawford, John Kelly and Knute Armstrong took four ounces of gold from the earth and that set off a new rush there.

And, of course, with the new gold rush, has come a wave of fraud, desperado-deeds, and the practice of salting or faking a gold find so that some gullible prospector will buy.

Americans List Gasoline as Necessity of Life

Washington.—Gasoline now is as much a necessity of life as shoes and clothing, Leonard P. Ayres, famous economist and statistician, believes.

Ayers said one of the most important economic developments of the depression is the fact that Americans have ranked gasoline among the necessities of life.

He believes that the "vigorous expansion of production by the automobile industry" has been the most important factor in recovery thus far.

Ayers pointed out that the production of gasoline during the depression has held up "far better" than that of clothing or shoes, or of processed foods.

"Apparently," Ayers said, "gasoline ranks in popular esteem ahead of other things that we have become accustomed to think of as being the foremost necessities."

Test Shows Congress Is Not So Dumb, After All

Washington.—Honest, folks, congress isn't so dumb. To the contrary, it's pretty bright.

As proof two congresswomen and one congressman took the intelligence test devised by Dr. David Segal of the United States office of education—and passed.

According to Doctor Segal, if a person gets three or fewer answers wrong they are entitled to a mental age of twenty-one. Each of the three representatives, Mrs. Caroline O'Day (Dem. N. Y.), Mrs. Virginia Jenckes (Dem. Ind.) and Maury Maverick (Dem. Texas) won that rating.

HAUSNER DIES IN PILSUDSKI RITE

Stanley Hausner (inset), Polish-American who was rescued from the Atlantic after an unsuccessful flight to Poland in 1932, was killed when his plane crashed while stunting at a memorial service in Detroit for the late Polish dictator, Marshal Joseph Pilsudski. After losing the right wing, the plane plunged into a house, exploded and burst into flames. A bugler who had just officiated at the Pilsudski service is shown as he sounded taps over Hausner's flaming bier. (Associated Press Photos)

AROUND THE WORLD IN 1/4 OF A SECOND

The other day two telephone men sat at desks 50 feet apart and talked to each other over a 23,000-mile circuit. One voice traveled via Japan, Java, Holland and Great Britain to New York. The other reversed a parallel circuit back to the same room. And only a quarter of a second was needed for their voices to make this round-the-world trip.

It was not just an interesting stunt, but an experiment of real practical value in improving and extending the service that helps you reach anybody, anywhere, any time—and helps anyone reach you. New York Telephone Company.

Hang Their Criminals

Let no one think Abyssinians are more saintly than some persons who use poison gas, submarines and air bombs in warfare. They do some things that modern Christian nations do, such as in punishments meted out to criminals. The criminal code of the Ethiopians is less refined. They used no lethal chambers, no electric chairs, no guillotines to execute their murderers. They hang them on trees.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE W. JACOBS

New York, May 20 (AP)—The stock market today worked its way slightly higher.

A considerable portion of the share market displayed irregularity at the opening but a fairly broad demand appeared for communication shares and within a short time the entire list responded to the urge to go forward.

Modest gains were made by shares of American Telephone, Radio Corp., Otis Elevator, U. S. Steel, Westinghouse, Western Union, International Telephone, Schenley Distillers, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Hide and Leather, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, National Distillers, Bridgeport Brass, Montgomery Ward, Consolidated Gas, Union Pacific, United Aircraft and Sperry Corp. Columbia Pictures shot up 4 points but subsequently relinquished part of the gain.

Motors and mining shares had some difficulty in keeping up with the rest of the list when profit taking got in the way. Chrysler was especially active and managed to advance around ½ point to around 47⅛ but at this juncture a lot of stock was offered and the advantage was lost. General Motors held about even and minor losses occurred in leading metals, including U. S. Smelting and Cerro De Pasco.

Desiano Sent to State Hospital at Matteawan

said, was moody and sullen at times and other times jolly and happy.

James Festa said at the time of the crime Desiano was renting a house from him in Marlborough where the defendant lived alone. Festa said he had been told by a man who had given the defendant a ride the night of the crime that Desiano had told a story of having dynamite in his house. Festa said he investigated and found 72 or 73 sticks of the explosive under a loose board in the floor of the house in the center of the village. Desiano complained of a buzzing in his head and was moody at times. He saw him with a gun once.

Acted Queer in Jail

Deputy Sheriff Abram Molyneaux testified that since being in jail Desiano had acted queer. For two and three days at a time he refused to come out of his cell and other times he appeared all right. He described Desiano's actions in court when he was arraigned and said that at that time he threw back his head and rolled it from side to side and would not plead to the indictment although two interpreters had tried to talk to him and explain the case. Some days the defendant was talkative and others he wouldn't talk at all.

Following the hearing Judge Traver signed the commitment papers.

Desiano, 37 years old, was charged with the murder of his brother-in-law, Peter Carofano at Marlborough on December 20, 1934. Carofano, 50 years old, died at St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, the following day as the result of injuries suffered when Desiano fired a charge of buckshot through the lower portion of Carofano's left arm, neck, head and chest.

According to the story told Sergeant Lockhart and Corporal Norman Baker following the arrest of Desiano a few hours after the shooting, there had been a difference between himself and his brotheri-n-law over money matters and later Desiano went to the Carofano home where Desiano's four step-children were making their home. At that time he was armed with a shotgun and carried a vest with some 50 or 60 rounds of ammunition.

In the house was Mary Pascale, one of the step-children, washing dishes when Desiano entered. Carofano heard her scream and came to see what was wrong and as he entered the room Desiano fired. The charge of buckshot fired at close range entered his left arm and body. Desiano then it was ascertained started after Mary and chased her around the house but she eluded him and hid in an upstairs room. Desiano then left the house and disappeared. After an all night search in the locality Desiano was located early next morning by Sergeant Lockhart, Corporal Baker and Trooper Klein as he drove along the road between Marlborough and West Marlborough in a car.

Carofano, despite his wounds walked to a doctor's office in Marlborough where after his wounds were dressed he was ordered to the hospital.

Desiano was arrested and held on an assault charge but later, when Carofano died this was changed to murder and the grand jury handed up an indictment charging murder, first degree.

Arraigned in court when the indictment was presented Desiano appeared not to understand English although people who knew him said he could speak and understand fairly well. Interperters attempted to explain the meaning of the arraignment and get him to enter a plea of not guilty but he seemingly could not understand them. A plea of not guilty was entered and Assemblyman J. Edward Conway and George Rusk were assigned as counsel.

Found Dynamite In House

After the shooting Troopers made an examination of the premises in Marlborough and found several sticks of dynamite in the house. Why they were there and for what purpose was not learned although neighbors said they had been told that explosives were in the house.

Desiano saw service during the World War where he served with the Italian army for five years with the rank of sergeant of artillery. He came to this country in 1921 and following the death of his wife some time ago, six of the children, five being stepchildren, and one of Desiano's own children went to live with Carofano. Two of the children were sent to a home.

PLENTY OF IRON

There have been fears for a quarter of a century that the wonderful iron ore in the Lake Superior region—the most plentiful and most easily handled deposit in the known world—would play out. What then would happen to the Steel Age?

On this supply American steel supremacy was based. Nature had deposited around the western end of Lake Superior, easily accessible, billions of tons of ore in the form of iron oxides—red iron rust—lying so that it could be mined with great steam shovels and so rich that it gave more than 50 per cent metallic iron. Nature had also provided the Great Lakes for transporting this native wealth from the wilderness to the industrial heart of the country, 1,000 miles away. With highly mechanized docks and great steamships of original design, the ore was shipped for that thousand miles as cheaply as railroads could carry it 80 miles. So came cheap steel, cheap automobiles and other products of a thousand kinds, on which our industrial supremacy is based.

But a few years ago the outlook was darkening. With a billion and a half tons of that ore used up, the best grades were playing out. What would happen to the vast industries stretching from Pittsburgh to Chicago, and to these depending on them? Now the fears have vanished. According to R. C. Allen, president of the Lake Superior Iron Ore Association, processes for removing impurities from the ore have advanced so far that the remaining "poor" ores are almost as usable as the rich ones, and as a result "the ore supplies of the Lake Superior region are practically inexhaustible."

That is good news for all Americans. Despite the progress made in other metals and alloys, steel is still, and will remain, the metallurgists say, the most valuable of all the metals.

SAFE BLIND-LANDING

Instrument-flying experts of the Army Air Corps have worked out radio equipment for blind-landing which will eventually be installed by the Department of Commerce at all air ports along the commercial flying routes. The apparatus consists of two portable radio transmitters, a radio compass or homing device in the plane and a sensitive altimeter, also in the plane.

By use of this equipment a pilot, approaching a fogged-in airport, can locate the landing field and get his directions. Then, at a certain altitude, he can put his plane into a fixed glide calculated to bring it to ground in mid-field. It is said that hundreds of successful blind landings have been made by Air Corps pilots by this method.

The experimental work has been done. The equipment has been perfected. The Department of Commerce placed its order for the radio sets nearly four months ago. Installation at the flying fields will be made as soon as possible, but property must be leased, approaches constructed and tests made before operation may begin. Announcement of the plan is timely now, however, because of the recent airplane accident in which Senator Bronson Cutting of New Mexico was killed. Fog has been one of aviation's deadliest perils, but it is bound to be overcome or greatly mitigated as radio and various automatic flying devices are invented and perfected and put to use.

ONE OF WAR'S PENALTIES

"The final bonus law," wrote a dispassionate Washington correspondent before the bill went to the President, "will contain a clause renouncing pensions for World War veterans, but no veteran needs to take that too seriously. Ten years ago the Legion was against a bonus. Ten years from now there will be a pension system."

This is not accusing the Legion[illegible] of [illegible] bad faith. It is merely recognizing human nature and the way things of this sort inevitably work out in a free country. It is the way a democracy fights and pays for war. And we are likely to pay in this manner for 50 to 100 years after every war. The way to prevent such expense and the political agitation connected with it is to prevent war.

DIFFERENT DEMOCRACIES

A king, even a beloved constitutional monarch like George V, is only a symbol these days, but a president of the United States has the power of a good many ballots behind him. The king, however, may rule for as many years as his life lasts—barring revolutions—while a president has eight years at the most, and often only four years, to exercise his tremendous power.

These are striking contrasts in government, particularly when you consider the fact that the British Empire and the United States have one great characteristic in common. They are the two greatest democracies in the world today. Democracy, apparently, lies in the attitude of a people toward themselves and their government, rather than in the form of the government.

NOSE BLEED.

It is not uncommon for growing boys and girls at the age of puberty (14 to 16 years) to be troubled with nose bleed. The bleeding is at the front part of the nose at lowest portion of the cartilage which divides the nose into the two ports or nostrils. This is rather fortunate as it is not hard to reach the bleeding point with absorbent cotton, or when necessary with a cautery such as a red hot needle when it it difficult to stop the bleeding.

While nose bleed may be due to a number of causes, picking at, scratching, or blows are the commonest.

There are of course certain ailments which cause nose bleed, such as diphtheria, measles, whooping cough, worms, typhoid fever, high blood pressure, inflammation of the kidneys, anaemia (thin blood), influenza, catarrh, tuberculosis and some forms of heart trouble.

Thus as someone has well said, "Nose bleed may be a warning, a remedy, or a disease."

There seems to be a tendency or predisposition to nose bleed in some individuals just as others have a predisposition to hay fever, rheumatism, eczema, tuberculosis and other ailments. Naturally these individuals should avoid those things which cause the nose to bleed—picking at the nose, blowing it too hard, violent sneezing, tight collar, bending the head over when working or playing.

Now a little bleeding from the nose cannot do any harm; in fact in cases of high blood pressure or heart disease nose bleeding is really a measure of safety to the system. Therefore, it is not considered wise to stop the bleeding immediately because most cases of nose bleed stop of themselves.

However when it does not stop in a short time the usual "home" remedies should be used. Head and shoulders should be held erect, and breathing should be done entirely through the mouth. Apply ice to back of neck or over the nose and hold both hands above the head. Pressing the bleeding side of the nose against the central cartilage or septum for ten minutes is often sufficient to stop the bleeding. Pressing some absorbent cotton up the nostril is usually a successful method of treatment; in fact it is sometimes necessary to pack the absorbent cotton to the very back part of the nose, almost into the throat. If the absorbent is dipped in ardenalin it will be more effective.

If these home measures do not stop the bleeding it may be necessary to call a physician who will apply a stypic or completely plug the nose.

ENEMY'S KISS

by Evelyn M. Winch

SYNOPSIS: Guy Western has come chivalrously to the aid of Alison Rede when, through Daphne Sumers' "mistake," Alison has been sent alone to Daphne's lonely Sussex house. Now Daphne is trying to persuade Alison's father, whom she is about to marry, that there was something wrong in Guy's actions. Alison is grief-stricken at the thought of having such a woman as Daphne gaining control of her easy-going father.

Chapter 19

DAPHNE'S SUCCESS

"DON'T worry," he soothed. "She's much too young yet to think of marrying."

"I know. That's the very age that appeals to the type I'm speaking of: a child, innocent enough to believe in them! They're experts. They know how to make romantic love, and how to work up to the point when she runs off and then—well, she'll make a settlement and after that he just won't care! I tell you, dear, I'm scared!"

"You mustn't be. You and I can look after her."

"That's just it," insisted Daphne. "I feel I'm to blame. That I haven't looked after her! That my stupid mistake may have done her untold damage!"

"You mean the other night?" He looked incredulous. "You're worrying about nothing, honestly. I'm not saying that I'm very pleased about it but I saw the young man and she was quite safe, I feel certain, with him."

Daphne shrugged her shoulders. "Of course, you may be right. I haven't seen him," she admitted doubtfully. "He may be everything you say. Only, I could see that the child was taken with him; that he had a glamor—quite naturally! At that age one lives half in fairyland and a knight errant—well! It's not surprising she should fall in love with him, if he's at all good looking, and when I heard that you'd thought of asking him to lunch I could have almost screamed!"

"Surely there isn't any harm—" began Robert.

"Of course not, if he's the sort you say he is. But do you really think, Bob, that a decent young man would have stayed there with her? Don't you think he'd have found some way of getting hold of a chaperone? There are cottages, you know, round Warley!"

"I suppose it was a bit late, and in that storm—"

"I KNOW. One must allow for that. But even then, one's heard such terrible stories. Any idiot could see that Alison had money—her dress, those pearls, everything; and the type I've been talking of—well, it's their profession. I'm not suggesting that there was anything wrong—why should there be, when he saw there was a better, a bigger chance—of marrying her! Only, I got an awful shock, dear, when I saw that breakfast table!"

Robert shifted uneasily.

"I really think you're making too much of it," he said. "I'm sure if you come to lunch too, and meet him—"

"I expect you're right," said Daphne meekly. "I know that you're a good judge of people, better than I am. That's the awful part of the sort of time that I've had, Bob. It leaves one too suspicious. I wasn't saying that he was that sort of man. I only wanted to warn you, that's all."

"Perhaps you're right. I can easily find out about him," Robert agreed.

"If you could! And just drop a tiny hint to Alison that she mustn't be too romantic about him until she knows more. It'd take an awful weight off my mind if you would. You see, I do feel responsible."

"My dear, if you want me to, of course I will!" He got up, came over to her; and now Daphne yielded, leaning against him, holding up her mouth.

She said cooingly, between his kisses, "You know, darling, you're so wise! That's why I feel safe with you. I wouldn't have dared even to hint to Alison that I was worried. She wouldn't understand and she'd resent the idea that I was looking after her. But now I feel quite happy. I know you'll do it tactfully, let her think it comes from you—you are so clever at those things."

"It's you who've made me happy," responded Robert. "I'd no idea you felt like that, I mean about Alison."

"I'd love her anyway, but I love her doubly because she's yours," said Daphne Sumers and kissed him again.

If she had any thoughts, they remained hidden behind the dark veil of her lustreless eyes.

ROBERT chose the hour after dinner when he sat in the library, the heavy damask curtains drawn, the fire burning brightly, coffee and liqueurs on an old Chippendale tray table by the deep sofa, and Alison turning over gramophone records at his side.

A direct person at all times, and particularly with his girl, he made no effort to approach the subject obliquely.

"By the way, dear, if you're thinking of asking that young man to lunch—"

"Guy Western?"

"Yes. If you're thinking of asking him to lunch—"

"It was you who suggested it, father!"

"Oh, yes, well—anyway, I think perhaps we'd better find out just a little more about him first, that's all. I mean, we don't know much, do we?"

"What's Mrs. Sumers been saying to you?"

"I thought you liked him?"

"I do. Oh, I do! But, well, one can't be too careful; I mean, he seems a very nice, decent sort of fellow, charming and all that, but you know, Alison, people aren't always what they seem. After all, you do get crooks in this world. And you're a very pretty girl, my dear!"

"What are you talking about, dear?" Alison dropped the record on the sofa.

"Nothing. I only don't want you to go losing your heart to some damned crook or fortune hunter, that's all."

Alison looked at him steadily.

"Father."

"Hm?"

"What's Mrs. Sumers been saying to you?"

"Daphne? Why, nothing."

"Oh, yes, she has! You didn't think of that idea yourself!"

"What idea?" said Robert rather badly.

"About my losing my heart and Guy Western being a crook."

"Well, she's quite right." He did not notice Alison's bitter smile.

Alison realizes, tomorrow, the extent of her fathers' infatuation.

Amateur Flower Shows.

A flower show often starts as a meeting of a garden club or of a civic organization. Spring is the best time of the year for such a show, because everyone is enthusiastic and flowers are plentiful.

A Cornell bulletin, just published, tells how to organize a show, how to make a prize schedule and to arrange flowers in classes and it gives suggestions to exhibitors. The bulletin is timely now.

CLAIM WEED CAUSE OF SHEEP DISEASE

Experts Plan to Seek Proof This Summer.

Washington. — Agriculture department officials will seek proof this summer that coal oil weed, or spineless horse-brush, has been responsible for bighead, a sheep disease which has cost western raisers tremendous losses for 80 years.

Arthur B. Clawson of the department already has gone to the live stock ranges in Utah, Idaho and neighboring states. He will be assisted by E. A. Moran and W. T. Huffman of the bureau of animal industry, and Milton A. Madison of Manti, Utah. Headquarters will be at Salina, Utah. Definite study of bighead began a year ago.

Most serious outbreaks, the department said, occur in fairly definite places along the trails, or on the bed grounds while sheep are being moved from winter ranges to lambing grounds.

It has been found that either coal oil weed or spineless horsebrush was abundant in every area where bighead was particularly dangerous. On other ranges, however, the plants were found only in small isolated patches. The period when the plants were poisonous checked with the season when bighead appeared, the department said.

Sheepmen have found that in some outbreaks of bighead a considerable portion of the sick sheep showed little if any swelling about the head, and that fatalities among such animals were much higher than among cases which gave the disease its name.

Many raisers believe bighead is caused by weather conditions, as it seems most prevalent on hot, sunny days following cold, stormy periods. Belief that the disease is caused by weeds fits in with the weather theory, however, the department said, because it is known that when animals eat certain plants they become extremely sensitive to sunlight.

Pioneer Oil Wells Still Pumping Away in Texas

Corsicana, Texas—Some of the first oil wells in the state's oldest field still are producing after almost 40 years of pumping. They are located in the old Corsicana field.

The predecessor of the Magnolia Petroleum company, which recently sold its property in the area to C. L. Brown, Corsicana, brought in the first commercial well to open the gates to Texas' largest industry.

Oil was found in the Taylor formation from 900 to 1,000 feet. During the first year 1,450 barrels of crude had been taken from the area. That was in 1896.

After that the industry in the Corsicana field skyrocketed to 65,976 barrels in 1897, to more than 500,000 barrels the following year. By 1901, the year oil was discovered in the Spindletop area, near Beaumont, the field had produced 2,000,000 barrels.

In the 40 years of its existence this small field has produced more than 8,500,000 barrels of crude from the shallow sands alone.

The rotary drilling principle was first applied in the field and laid the foundation for well depths of more than a mile and a half.

Plants Own Windbreak; Proves It Will Grow

Elk City, Neb.—Harold Buethe, Elk City farmer, got the jump on the government shelter belt experts and planted his own windbreak in 1932. He has proved that trees will survive in windbreaks in Nebraska if they are given careful attention, even under the most adverse conditions.

In March, 1932, Buethe planted 100 Chinese elms, 200 Austrian pines and 100 Russian mulberries. The ground was plowed beforehand and then disked and harrowed to retain the moisture, Buethe explained. The trees were planted in a right angle on the north and west sides of the Buethe farm buildings, in rows 12 feet apart.

Buethe said most of his planting survived and afforded an effective windbreak which is expected to increase in value as the trees grow.

Band Gets "Hard Labor"; Pays Fine With Tunes

Mayfield, Ky.—Gene Page and members of his six-piece orchestra lined up in front of Police Judge John Wyman, accused of an excess of good fellowship in a tavern.

The judge said he guessed they were guilty and he'd sentence them to a little term of hard labor.

"Court will be adjourned while you play some of your very best tunes by way of a fine," he said.

Canadian Valentine Causes Family Row

Montreal.—Mrs. Aldei Cloutre is suing her brother and his wife for $100.00 because they allegedly sent her a valentine.

Mrs. Cloutre alleges the valentine bore a picture of a "funny-faced" woman, whose features were partially hidden behind a massive pair of spectacles, and at the bottom in writing the caption: "She looks very much like you, eh? She has glasses like yours." On the reverse side were other insults.

Mrs. Cloutre declares the valentine "injured her feelings."

Her brother and his wife deny sending the valentine.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—Observers here pricked up their ears when they heard the reaction of Senator George Norris of Nebraska, dean of the senate independent republican bloc, to the supreme court's 5-4 decision invalidating the railroad retirement act.

Norris' observation was nothing new, but coming at the time it did his words echoed the thoughts entertained by many.

The veteran Nebraska legislator not only was "bitterly disappointed" but "disgusted" at the fact that "five men who happened to sit on the bench can say that all this work of congress is useless."

The important thing about Norris' intensity of feeling in this instance is that he may attempt to do something about it. He has a way of plunging in headlong in an effort to change those things of which he disapproves, whether it be by an amendment to the Constitution or by statute.

Change Is Urged

HE fought 14 years to have "lame duck" sessions of congress abolished by constitutional amendment and succeeded. At present he is leading a fight to have the electoral college abolished. And he has pushed through congress bills limiting the power of federal judges in labor disputes.

For a long time law professors and students have urged a change in some way to require a two-thirds vote of the court to invalidate an act of congress.

There's wide variance of opinion as to how such a change could be accomplished.

Act Rushed Through

THERE'S this to be considered in any attempt to judge in light of this particular decision what the court may do. It is that the railroad retirement act was rushed through congress at the close of the last session in hurried fashion and with a minimum of debate.

The house was forced to consider it by a committee discharge petition. It was what is known in congressional parlance, "pressure legislation"—the product of pressure from a lobby and time.

A filibuster conducted by Huey Long of Louisiana aided by former Senators Dill of Washington and Hatfield of West Virginia was responsible for the senate accepting it.

The President did nothing to obtain its enactment, and when it reached the White House for final disposition he signed it reluctantly, observing "though much improved in its final form (the measure), is still crudely drawn and will require many changes and amendments at the next session."

In light of this background the court's action may not, after all, seem so ominous. The fault may lie with congress in not doing a better job of legislating.

Talks to parents

College Entrance

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

Sam had home work to do. The living room was alive with voices from the radio, the dining room was the scene of a discussion between Dad and Uncle Joe, mother was washing dishes in the kitchen. Sam's bed-room was shared with a younger brother who was in the process of getting to bed. There was no place where a boy could study with any chance of quiet and privacy.

Nor was the evening in any way exceptional. The family was crowded into a very small space, and when it was all at home at night, filled every corner.

It did not occur to anyone that Sam's home work was of enough importance to be given special consideration. He went to school until three every day and surely ought to be able to prepare next day's lessons without upsetting everyone. But Sam was working up to his college examinations, and a great deal depended on his home work. The only solution to his problem was to wait until someone went to bed and left a room empty, and then to stay up until midnight or later, or to dispense with his studying altogether and take the consequences when the examinations were graded.

A great many children are being put under this kind of a strain, because their parents cannot appreciate the importance of undisturbed study, especially when a child is going through the nervous strain of coming up to college examinations.

However trifling the examinations may seem to adults, even those who have been through the mill, to the child they are an ordeal, and he faces them nervously tense with apprehension. It is a time when a family can well afford to make sacrifices for the child. He should not be forced to work late hours or under any strain which can be avoided.

While the United States increased it exports of bicycles 32 per cent in the last year, imports of bicycles during the same period advanced 30 per cent.

Sundown Stories

Other Honors

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE Indians who had come to visit Puddle Muddle on their way to a pow-wow had made Christopher Columbus Crow a big chief.

The little man, Willy Nilly, knew that some of his other animal friends felt that they had been slighted, and that they, as much as Christopher, deserved this honor.

Willy Nilly now saw Big Chief Eagle, followed by the other Indians, coming toward his house, dressed in his finest and best costume.

Booming-Voice, who was beating the drum, now shouted:

"Hail! Hail! Hail! The Chief! Big Chief Mighty Eagle, Big Chief of all the Tribe of Eagles has something to say. He is wearing the eagle feathers he captured from the strongest eagle of all the air.

"It was his father who taught him how to catch the eagle feathers when he was only eight summers.

"He climbed the tallest tree in all the forest when he went on great journey with his father chief.

"He plucked the feathers without the eagle so much as giving one cry or one small shriek. Eagle of the air felt boy would be big chief. Was proud to give feathers to him."

"Ai-i-i-i-i-i-i-i," cried all the other Indians, and the Puddle Muddlers forgot their little jealousies and shouted too.

"Big honors now go to big Puddle Muddlers," cried Big Chief Eagle. "Not all big in size, but big in greatness, big in courage, big in opinion of Indian."

The Puddle Muddlers wondered what other honors there would be!

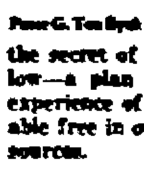
Well-Selected Economy Meals Can Be Tasty and Nourishing

Here Are Some Useful Suggestions for Families With Small Food Budgets

By PETER G. TEN EYCK
Commissioner, Department of Agriculture and Markets
Albany, New York

IT has been amply demonstrated that simple and inexpensive meals can be made both delicious and completely nourishing. If the family food budget has felt the vigorous pinch of "hard times," that is no reason why meals should become monotonous, food unappetizing and nutrition inadequate. Buying according to an advance plan is the secret of keeping the food cost low—a plan formulated from the experience of experts is now available free in our State from various sources.



Peter G. Ten Eyck

Dividing the Dollar

Dr. Henry Sherman of Columbia says that the simplest and most widely used formula for spending the food money under normal conditions is to divide it into fifths:

One-fifth, more or less, for vegetables and fruits.

One-fifth, or more, for milk and cheese.

One-fifth, or less, for meats, fish and eggs.

One-fifth, or more, for bread and cereals.

One-fifth, or less, for fats, sugars and miscellaneous.

However, if the income is very limited, or even inadequate, Dr. Sherman states that about one-third should be spent for milk. Under such conditions a fair proportion seems to be: One-third for milk, one-third for cereals and bread, one-third for fats, sugars, vegetables and other supplies.

Use More Milk

Under no circumstances should milk be eliminated from any normal diet. Indeed, the lower the income, the greater the proportion of the whole diet should be given over to milk, as this supplies the largest proportion of all daily food requirements in the least expensive form.

Every family dietary should include one fresh vegetable every day. Select from the local market, according to season, at the lowest price. The cheapest are usually the root vegetables, like turnips, carrots, parsnips and beets. But at least two or three times a week the menu should include spinach, cabbage, or other leafy vegetables.

There should be some fresh fruit two or three times a week, supplemented if necessary the rest of the time by dried fruits. Season usually determines the market price, which should be carefully watched if strict economy is the family byword. Buy fresh fruit as often as it can be afforded. In the meantime, raw cabbage, canned or fresh tomatoes, and raw carrots will give protection in one of the essential dietary requirements.

"Spending Less for Healthful Food" is a helpful little pamphlet these days. A postal card request to the Consumers Information Service, State Department of Agriculture and Markets, Peter G. Ten Eyck, Commissioner, Albany, New York, will bring you a copy free.

Hitler Seeking Ease For German Position

By MELVIN K. WHITELEATHER
(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

Berlin, May 20—Pinched by French encirclement, Reichsfuehrer Hitler again is seeking to ease the discomfort of Germany's position through a frank talk with Pierre Laval, France's foreign minister. With all exits seemingly closed by France's diligent diplomatic maneuvering, it was disclosed today Der Fuehrer is hunting high and low for a way out of the dilemma with which his foreign policy is confronted. It is said he would like to point the way to that as yet unseen door in his Reichstag speech tomorrow.

With the assistance of Joseph Beck, Polish foreign minister, Hitler succeeded in getting Laval into a two-and-one-half hour conference at Krakow with his principal aide, General Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister of aviation.

But the Frenchman later slipped out of Poland through Germany with rather emphatic indications that he has no intention of returning to this side of the Rhine.

"There is not much chance that Laval will give Hitler the satisfaction of an interview," quarters close to the foreign minister said.

"The conversation with Goering was instructive, but that's about all."

Ever since Hitler came to power, he has tried to entice French statesmen to come to Berlin, but has met with the stock reply: "Come to Geneva and talk with all of us there."

Laval, however, has believed for a long time in direct negotiations with Germany. Soon after he became foreign minister there were indications he might see Hitler if it became politically possible.

Informed quarters say this inclination has faded since the Saar plebiscite. Laval, they say, settled the Saar problem with Germany in the hope that the Nazis would "settle down" after the territory's return to the Fatherland.

Instead, it is said, the Saar victory was the signal for a whole series of outbursts distasteful to the French.

"Abandoned Car Left" In Wrong Driveway

There was considerable excitement on West Chestnut street Sunday morning when a Pontiac roadster was driven into one of the driveways and the driver of the car than alighted and removed the license plates from the machine and walked away leaving the car in the driveway. The police department was notified and one of the radio cars was soon on the scene. The investigation at first did not prove very fruitful of results and finally the car was towed to the city hall grounds by another radio car.

Shortly afterward the police department received a call from a resident of West Chestnut street that he had just purchased a Pontiac roadster and it was to be delivered to him that morning, but the car was not delivered.

It developed that the "abandoned" Pontiac was the one the West Chestnut street man had purchased but the former owner of the car had made a mistake and parked it in the wrong driveway.

So another mystery was cleared up in short order.

INSPECTS MONTGOMERY WARD LABORATORY IN NEW YORK

Donald A. Sweeney, newly appointed manager of the local Montgomery Ward clothing department, has returned from a buying trip in New York city. Mr. Sweeney was accompanied on the trip by Mr. Bright and Mr. Cox of the New York district purchasing department.

While in New York, Mr. Sweeney was conducted through the Montgomery Ward laboratory, and the exhaustive tests each piece of clothing undergoes before accepted by Montgomery Ward and placed on sale was demonstrated to Mr. Sweeney by members of the laboratory department. Mr. Sweeney also purchased a complete line of men's clothing for the local store in a higher quality line of merchandise than has heretofore been carried.

The Street Singer

On a much smaller scale than the famous Biblical plague of the locusts comes word from all sections of the county of the ravages of the "Tent" caterpillar to trees and homes; reports ranging from multitudes of small visitors to complete destruction of fruit and young shade trees.

A few days ago the ERB and other relief agencies were instructed that no help could be obtained from them, since the project of killing caterpillars was not an approved project. Hence it must be everyone for himself and a sincere effort should be made to stop the advances made by these destructive creatures.

Appeal has been made to Albert Kurdt, manager of the Farm Bureau in Ulster county, who has given proper methods of attack on the little pests. His recommendations appear elsewhere in the columns of this paper tonight.

There have been so many appeals to this office concerning how to get rid of the caterpillars that it would seem to be a profitable business for some of the unemployed to take up. There are many places in the city where these pests are doing considerable damage, and home owners would be only too glad to hire a man to exterminate them, and pay a reasonable price for the job.

Action should be begun at once to get rid of the insects. Here is an opportunity for some active unemployed men to take hold and it would seem that the inhabitants of this city would be only too glad to cooperate and have the pests killed, paying a moderate price for the work.

Officials Crack Down On Gotham Gangsters

New York, May 20 (AP).—Federal investigators and crack police department sleuths plunged today into a war on the city's gangs and racketeers, with the income tax statutes and the state's new public enemy law as their principal weapons.

Preparations for the double drive to smash gang-guided crime were disclosed with the making public of a police directory of gangdom—a sort of "who's who in the rackets."

This anti-social register, drawn from police data, includes the names of alleged leaders and underlings of racketeering in poultry, produce, prostitution, laundry business and gambling, including the numbers game.

City authorities said they were eager to test the new Brownell law which enables them to harass gangsters as suspicious persons, with the prisoners required to prove they were not consorting for an unlawful purpose.

An American Tragedy

Within a teapot cracked and old,
much banged about the lid;
A gentle spinster's careful hand, her little savings hid;
And oft' in meditation sweet, surveyed her precious store,
But while she loved it very much,
she loved matrimony more.
Long musing on a single life had turned her charming head;
But giglot fancy boded forth, on the day that she should wed;
Fair visions of a silken gown, a side
swiped hat that matched,
And she counted among other things,
much poultry yet unhatched.
The happy day might have arrived,
and would as like as not,
But alas her uncle Sam pulled off, a raid upon the pot;
Oh impecunious, ruthless uncle Sam,
to kid a maiden fond;
And leave in her astonished arms, a little baby bond.
Now gentle reader hold your breath,
and weeping lend an ear;
While we approach the tragic end,
and drop a tributary tear;
From evil we may not gather good,
or from thistles gather figs,
May-be, her wad has gone to stay,
posthumous little pigs.
ALAN MACKENZIE.

Peace

Peace is found in simple things;
There's the peace the evening brings
When the busy day is done
And you gather one by one
'Round the firelight's ruddy glow—
Oh, what peace the heart may know!
Little ones are tucked in bed
After childish prayers are said;
Older children, bright heads bent,
On their lessons are intent;
Mother smiles across at Dad—
Has his day been rather bad?
Never mind, in this retreat
There is peace, and life is weet.

An old farmer's rich cousin from the city paid him a visit. When he left he offered to send the farmer a new hat.

Rich Cousin—What kind would you like, Silas? Felt or straw?

Silas (thinking quickly)—Straw. When I've finished with it it will do nicely for a mouthful for the cows.

Some people are like flowers—We never miss them until the bloom withers and disappears.

Young Doctor—I'm afraid I made a mistake in filling in a death certificate today.

Old Doctor—How was that?

Young Doctor—I absent-mindedly signed my name in the space left for "Cause of death".

Uncle Silas—What you readin' now, Hetty?

Aunt Hetty—Why, this paper tells about an Englishwoman that lost 2,000 pounds.

Huey Long's idea isn't new. The busy bees gather honey and man comes along and divides their wealth.

Prospective Customer (in beauty parlor)—What will a face-lifting operation cost me?

Beauty Parlor Operator—About a hundred dollars.

Prospective Customer (crestfallen)—That's too much money. Isn't there something less expensive I could try?

Beauty Parlor Operator—Well, you might try wearing a veil.

Correct this sentence: "I went to a dance instead of choir practice," said the small-town girl, "and nobody told mother."

Kingston Man—I had a most enjoyable time at the dentist's this afternoon.

Friend—I don't see how that could be.

Kingston Man—It's true. When I went in another dentist was working on my dentist's teeth.

If your friends stay with you for a week, he or she may be called a guest, but after that time a boarder.

Critics are people who "discover" a genius after a common herd has cheered him for ten years.

Daughter—Marry that old rich fool? Why, I'd die first.

Modern Mother—Nonsense, my dear, he's not as strong as he looks.

WE'RE GOING TO THE DENTIST TODAY SO WE WANT TO BE SURE OUR TEETH ARE WELL BRUSHED. AFTER HE'S THROUGH CLEANING MINE HE MAY GO OVER YOURS.
HOW DOES HE DO IT? WILL I LIKE IT?
5/13
OF COURSE. HE HAS A DIFFERENT KIND OF BRUSH. IT'S SHAPED LIKE A PENCIL AND ONE END WHIRLS AROUND. NOW OPEN YOUR MOUTH... THEN HE RUNS IT OVER YOUR TEETH.. LIKE THIS...
WHEN EACH ONE IS CLEANED HE TAKES A SYRINGE AND SQUIRTS WATER OVER IT. THAT RINSES THE POWDER OFF SO YOU CAN SPIT IT OUT IN A BOWL.
IS THAT ALL HE DOES?

IF WE BRUSH OUR TEETH WHY DOES A DENTIST HAVE TO CLEAN THEM?
HE DOES A BETTER JOB AND REACHES PARTS THAT WE OFTEN SKIP. ALSO HE CAN SEE IF WE'RE EATING THE PROPER FOODS TO KEEP THEM STRONG AND HEALTHY.

No Printed Word About the Art of Gem-Cutting

The mysterious art of gem-cutting which was born some 60 centuries ago, has existed for generations without reference books or bibliography, says a writer in the Washington Star. An art which is parent of one of the world's wealthiest trades is practically unknown in scientific literature. Not a single book about it has ever been printed on an American press. Creation's record collection of books at the Congressional library contains neither tome, text book or treatise concerning the fascinating activities of both ancient and modern lapidists. Veiled in secrecy from its inception, this manipulative mastery of both gems and beautiful stones has husbanded its mysteries to the point where they are almost inviolate. Of all the unknown arts, it has rated as the most occult. Rival lapidaries have lived and died without revealing any of their secrets. Crimes were committed, blood was shed, but not even the wrath of royalty nor the machinations of the underworld were adequate to loose anything more than fragmentary facts about cabochon cutting and the facetting of precious and semi-precious stones.

The engraved seals of Babylon and the scarabs of Egypt were the ancient progenitors of modern gem-carving. About 500 B. C. gem-cutting attained its greatest artistry, during the days when sapphire points and bow drills were used. Altogether, there are some 125 gem stones, including both precious and semi-precious varieties which are handled regularly in the workshops of professional and amateur lapidaries. Approximately one-half of these are suitable for cabochon cutting, but the finer and more costly ones yield their maximum trove of beauty only when cut facet.

Mosques Are Pronounced Cairo Skyline Feature

Cairo, one of the high points on Mediterranean cruises, is the capital of Egypt, the largest city in Africa and one of the most curious cities in the world.

The minarets are the most beautiful in the Levant. There are 500 mosques in the city. In the building of one Gami Sultan Hassan expended $3,000 daily for three years and when it was completed cut off the architect's hands so that he could not construct another like it.

The Citadel, built about 1166, contains a mosque of Oriental alabaster. The Mosque of Tulin, built in the Ninth century, stands on the hill whereon tradition asserts, the ark rested after the flood. Another legend is to the effect that upon this spot Abraham was about to offer Isaac as a sacrifice when a ram was opportunely found for a substitute. Out in the river lies Rhoda island, where, tradition says, Pharaoh's daughter found the infant Moses in the bullrushes.

Pintail Ducks

Pintail ducks are trim and handsome, but usually shy, ever on the alert for danger. They are very rapid fliers. Pintails are not noisy ducks. The only notes they utter are quacks, which sound very much like the quack of the common mallard. In the field, male pintail ducks may be recognized by their white bellies and the conspicuous white line which runs up the side of the head and neck. The long, pointed central tail feathers are another distinction, and so are the light edgings of the rear of the pintail's wings when the duck is in flight. The female pintails are slender, streaked brown ducks, similar to the female mallard, but more slender and without the white-bordered blue patch on the wing.

Glees of Men's Voices First Started in 1740

Glee comes from the Anglo-Saxon word gliwe, meaning music, says an authority in the Montreal Herald.

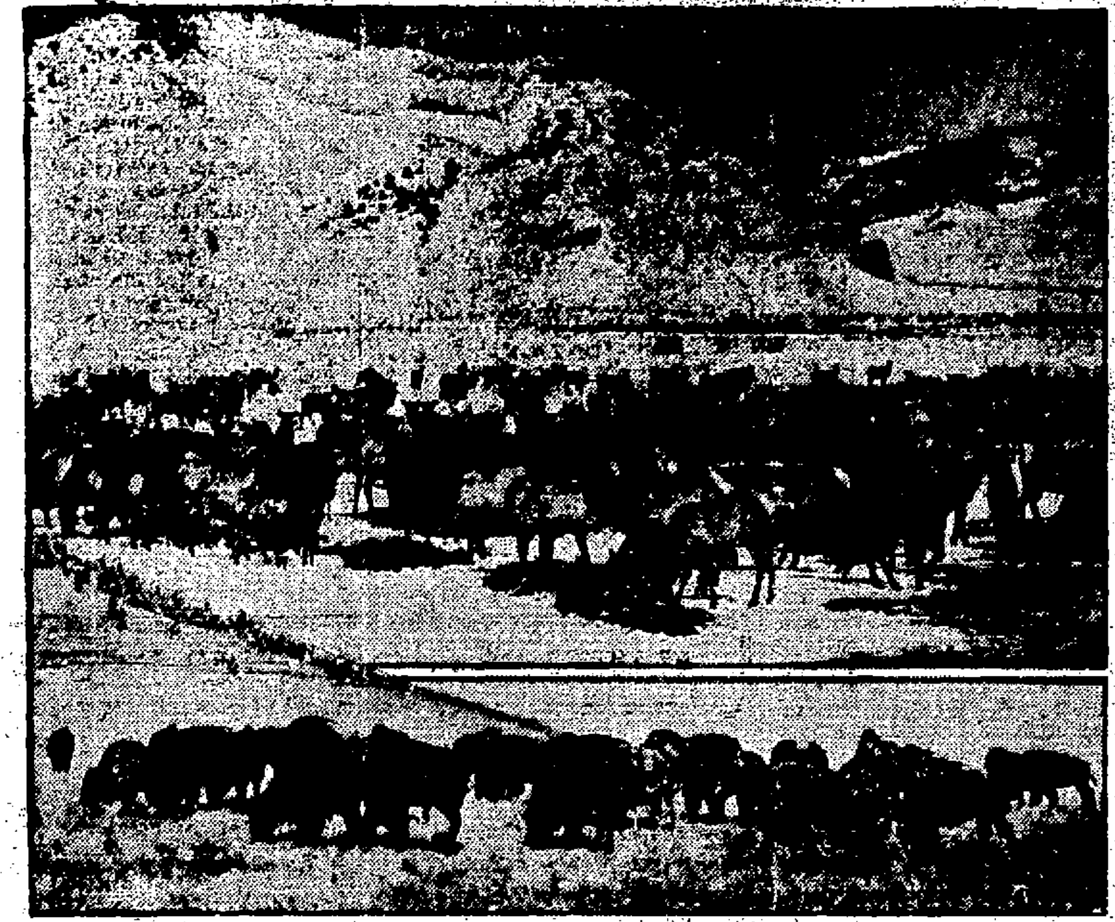
Three or more men's solo voices were used when glees first became fashionable. They were very like Elizabethan madrigals, but gradually more parts were added; shorter sentences and decisive rhythms gave the glee a distinctly new style.

Voices would overlap, or break in suddenly; sometimes there would be surprise pauses, but never were you allowed to think of the approaching end till the tune had been turned and twisted all ways.

Samuel Webbe (1740) founded the glee. They became so popular that a glee club was started at a coffee tavern in St. Paul's churchyard. At the meetings first one member and then another would name a glee, and everyone would join in. Glees are seldom sung these days, though the name is often applied to small choruses, particularly of men.

The United States department of agriculture expects the low point in the cycle of horse and mule production in this country to be reached about 1938 or 1939.

America's Buffalo And Antelope No Longer 'Vanishing Animals'



A Wyoming elk herd, corralled in the Teton mountains, is shown above at feeding time—the feed put out by government employes. Members of the Montana bison herd are grazing below.

By WILLIAM S. WHITE

Washington (AP)—The "vanishing" big game animal of the west isn't vanishing any more—in fact his tribe steadily increases.

The United States bureau of biological survey, which has refuges scattered all over the country for the protection of animals and fowls, says such typical pioneer specimens as buffalo, elk and antelope not only are doing fairly well in preserving their species, but sometimes get too numerous for their area and some have to be killed or given to the states.

Migration Eastward

Along with this development, bureau experts note a decided tendency toward an animal migration, although the wanderers so far are principally of the predatory sort, eastward—back toward homelands of a bygone century. The reason for this strange return, they say, is twofold.

First, tourists in the west have the habit of picking up cubs they think are cute and taking them back east where escape or granted freedom often follows. Lone coyotes have been reported in many far-scattered areas of the east, even on the Atlantic seaboard.

Second, the administration's program toward retirement of unsuitable agricultural lands, along with drouth, is encouraging a return to those areas of animals whose forebears were driven out in the westward movement of the plow last century.

Elk Number 120,000

As to western game animals such as buffalo, elk and antelope, the bureau says they are slowly getting more numerous. Its estimates now are that there are in this country 4,700 buffalo, 55,000 antelope and 120,000 elk.

These totals are trifling compared to what they were 50 years ago—when all species ran into so many thousands no authority will hazard an estimate of the totals. The process of destruction rolled on at a progressively advancing rate. However, the job of rehabilitating herds has been speeded up to a point where the decline has been checked and the trend is upward.

Some Buffalo Are Sold

In the Montana bison range, a typical reserve for the species, numbers have reached recently as high as 600, whereas the desired level, to avoid overcrowding and consequent destruction of soil covering, is nearer 500. Thus some buffalo are sold from time to time to local butchers. Others are turned over to Indian agencies, loosed on reservations and hunted by the redskins. None of the meat is wasted, officials say.

Similarly, elk numbers are reduced when they get too high. In a Wyoming elk reserve last winter the herd had to be reduced to range capacity by killing a considerable number of animals. This was done by game officials on foot. Airplanes had been used in making a survey as to the extent of the herd.

K. OF C. WILL STAGE FOURTH DEGREE AT TROY

Sunday afternoon, June 9, the fourth degree will be exemplified upon a large class of candidates at the Knights of Columbus Home in Troy, N. Y. This exemplification will be under the direction of Patrick T. Murphy, Master of Calvert Province, Third New York District, assisted by the degree team from Brooklyn in the First New York district. The exemplification will be followed by a banquet to be held at the Hendrick Hudson Hotel in Troy. Many notables in the order are expected to be in attendance at the degree and will be honored guests at the banquet.

A large share of the class of candidates is expected to be from Kingston Assembly, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, and applications are being received now by the different members of the assembly. Any third degree member of the Knights of Columbus, who has been associated with the local council for at least two years is eligible to take the fourth degree, and it is hoped that a large class will be available, as this coming exemplification will be the first one to be held in six years in this district. Members of the assembly who contemplate being in attendance at the banquet are urged to make reservations immediately through any of the officers of Kingston Assembly, or the financial secretary of the local council.

The Mynah Bird

The mynah bird, a member of the crow family and cousin of the jay, is a stranger to all parts of the United States except Hawaii. There, however, it has quite overrun the country, makes up a part of every landscape, struts proudly on the back of every water buffalo or dairy cow and graces many a bird cage, in which it vies with the parrot in its ability to talk. The mynah is a native of India and has got only as far as the Hawaiian Islands in following the channels of trade. It is barred from Continental United States because over here it is thought that we already have a sufficiently large representation of the aggressive bird family from which it comes.

Events Around The Empire State

New York, May 20 (AP).—A number of legislators and other state officials are planning to attend the funeral of Louis A. Cuvillier, dean of the New York State Assembly, Tuesday morning in St. Paul's Catholic Church. Interment will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

The 64-year-old Assemblyman died Saturday at the home of a sister, Mrs. Alice Cooley, in the Bronx.

Mr. Cuvillier, a native of Virginia, was a veteran of the Spanish-American and World Wars.

Philadelphia, May 20. (AP).—Physicians are hopeful today that Edward Shattuck, 23, of Ticonderoga, N. Y., will recover from injuries suffered Saturday aboard the freighter Examelia in the Delaware river.

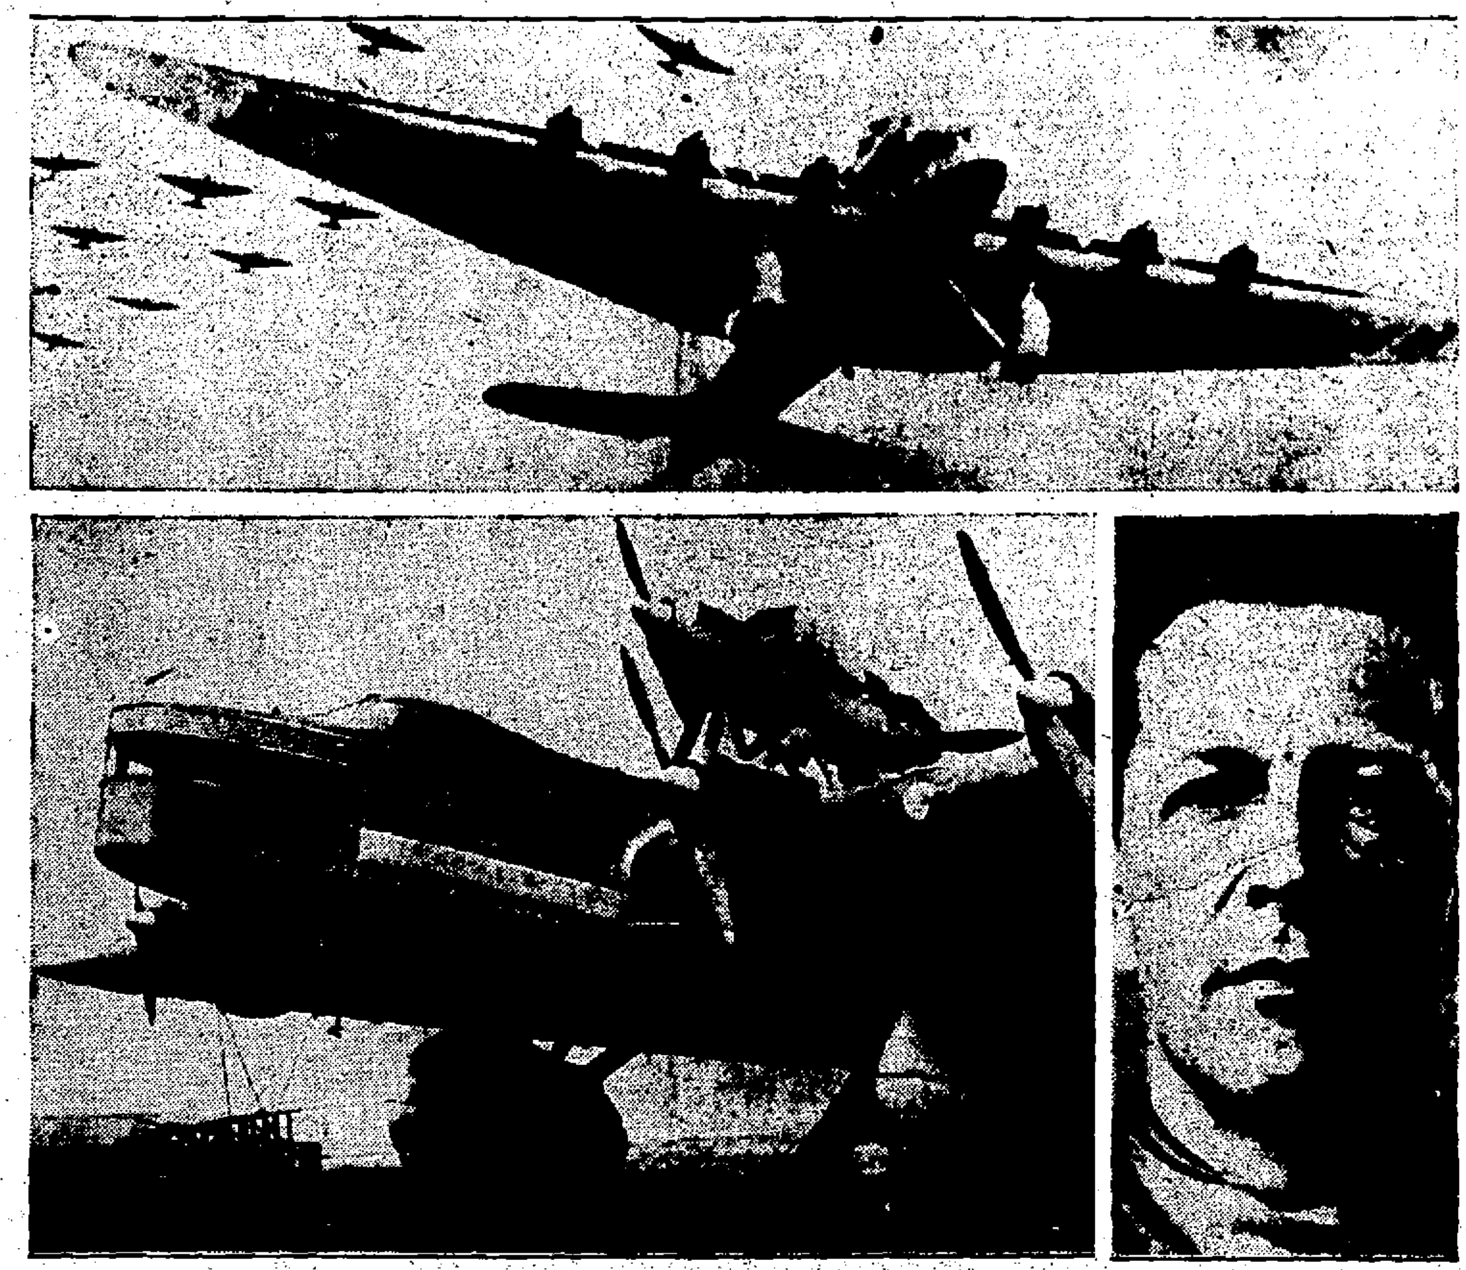
Shttuck, a cadet engineer, was knocked across his cabin when he struck a match to examine two black chunks, resembling coal, which he found in his locker. A detective said the substance apparently was gunpowder.

Cambridge, N. Y., May 20 (AP).—Alexander S. Allen, 45, former electrical superintendent, department of public works, Poughkeepsie, died here yesterday at his home after a heart attack. A native of Troy, he is survived by his widow and five children.

Albany, N. Y., May 20 (AP).—The delegates who attended the two-day convention here of the New York Grand Commandery, Knights of St. John, returned to their homes today after adopting a resolution protesting against non-action by the federal government over the alleged "persecution" of Catholics in Mexico.

Toconderoga, N. Y., May 20 (AP).—Located by bloodhounds after all other searchers failed, Raymond Manley, 38, a veteran woodsman now recuperating from an appendecotomy, is back in the hospital today, apparently unaffected by a four-mile hike in the Adirondack woods. He wandered away from the hospital yesterday and finally was tracked down by bloodhounds used by hospital attaches.

'AIR HOODLUM' BLAMED IN CRASH OF GIANT SOVIET PLANE



Russian officials blamed an "air hoodlum," whose stunting plane struck the giant airship "Maxim Gorky" as it soared near Moscow, for the crash which killed 49. James W. Duffield Speaks

At the regular Thursday morning upperclass assembly, Principal Clarence L. Dumm introduced J. W. Duffield, of the New York Times, a man who has spoken to Kingston audiences on several occasions, and who is widely known as an entertaining and extremely well-informed speaker.

Mr. Duffield announced his own topic, "The Making of a Great Newspaper". He prefaced his talk by saying that a newspaper is the mightiest force in the world for shaping public thought and opinion. To support this statement, he stated that the Times employed a staff of 3,500 people to publish its daily edition, which maintained a circulation of 500,000. On Sundays, this huge figure is boosted to 750,000 subscribers. These readers, in the speaker's opinion, constitute "the "Most discriminating body of newspaper readers in the world."

Throughout his address Mr. Duffield gave various facts and statistics concerning the "Times" and newspapers in general, and it was evident that he had a very thorough knowledge of the field. Enough paper goes into the making of a daily edition to lay a strip of regular newspaper width from New York to Los Angeles and back, and have 1,000 miles remaining. The Sunday edition would extend completely around the world.

The speaker then took his hearers on an imaginary trip down the Hudson for an inspection tour of the Times plant, "the most magnificently equipped newspaper office in the world." He explained that the paper has a standing invitation to any party of students visiting New York to inspect the plant. The Times will arrange for a competent guide to conduct the guests through the building. Mr. Duffield's description was so vivid and clear that one felt afterward as if he had actually made a visit to the office of the Times. He began with a description of the news room, in which center the incoming reports on news of all kinds. The scene, during a period of activity, was described as "pandemonium." Besides its immediate staff of reporters, the Times maintains an enormous number of correspondents at strategic points all over the earth. These men are trained to sense the significance of news, and know, as the speaker said in comparing the requirements of their work with the perfect timing of a top-notch batsman, "when to strike." He then told the story of the London correspondent who flashed the news of the destruction of a German Zeppelin, bombed over London during the war, to his home office in New York before the Zeppelin had touched the ground. In addition to its staff of correspondents, the Times carries on its payroll a number of trained, inquisitive, adventurous young men who are ready to climb on a train, a boat, or a plane and go to any spot in the world at a moment's notice, should an important story break.

Mr. Duffield then emphasized the far-reaching influence of the editorial of the Times. "Every newspaper," said the speaker, "just like every human being, has a soul as well as a body." Its body, he explained, is the actual printed edition. Its soul, the principles and motives which guide the paper, as expressed in its editorials. The editorial board of the Times meets daily in a room containing 20,000 volumes of reference works, in which any desired fact can be corroborated at a moment's notice. The board itself includes men of great experience and knowledge, who select each day the topics to be treated editorially in the columns of the Times. These topics are then assigned to writers eminently qualified to deal with the subject, and who produce editorials which are, in the speaker's words, "clean, dignified, logical, and free from any sensationalism."

Mr. Duffield next mentioned the work of the Times picture bureau, which has offices in Paris, London, Berlin, Rome and Madrid. While a picture taken abroad formerly took several days to reach this country, the new wirephoto process, by which the light and shading of a picture are transmitted as electrical impulses, reduces the time necessary to one hour, and produces a picture as clear and distinct as the original photograph. Any event of world importance in Rome, for instance, would be pictured on the pages of New York dailies at the same instant it appeared in the newspapers of Rome, as a result of the wirephoto process.

Mr. Duffield next gave a verbal picture of the composing room with its huge battery of linotypes, together with the other technical steps in the making of a newspaper. The sixty-five presses in the Times plant are endowed with seemingly human intelligence, printing, folding, counting, dividing, and carrying the papers, and work with enormous speed. We have one press which is capable of printing 60,000 32-page newspapers in one hour," he said. "These papers go out of our mailing room to 9,000 towns and cities in the United States, and to over 100 countries in the world." He then pictured the making of the fiber mats of each page from the lead casts made by the linotype machines, which use 40 tons of boiling lead daily. Semi-circular metal impressions are in turn made from the mats, by pouring molten metal into the mats, bent into a semi-circular form. These last cylindrical casts are placed in the press. At two or three o'clock in the morning, the paper is ready for its readers, all of the work finished. "Once more", said Mr. Duffield in his concluding sentence, "one of the great newspapers of the world has completed its daily round."

Merchants of Raleigh, N. C., recently contributed $300 to buy poison for ridding the town of rats.

Backfiring Kindness.

Huntington, W. Va.—Temperatures fell sharply and unseasonably in Huntington and Ross Chapman, 45, remembered his dog shivering in the kennel.

Chapman went to the rear of his home to light a small stove in the dog house. The gas exploded. Chapman was taken to a hospital seriously burned.

Family Ties—Into Policeman.

Philadelphia—Patrolman Robert Hartley ran into "family trouble" when he tried to arrest Harry Wisnewski, 21, for rolling dice on the pavement.

He chased Harry into the yard of his home and there the youth turned and gave battle, backed up by his father, his mother and then a brother and sister.

It was five gainst one, with kitchen utensils sailing in the general direction of the policeman until police reinforcements came. The family of five was arrested and Policeman Hartley went to a hospital.

Wrong Pew.

Dodge City, Kas.—A document in which a man had "mortgaged" himself to a woman came to Mrs. Harrie Connaway, register of deeds.

The man had borrowed money from the woman and in the space provided for describing livestock listed as collateral, he had written: "24" for the animal's age; "white" for color; "170" for the weight and "6 feet, 2 inches" for height.

Mrs. Connaway was puzzled as what kind of an animal it might be until she realized the man had described himself.

LOU GEHRIG has played in more than 1500 consecutive big league games. Such an athletic achievement takes "wind"—healthy nerves—"condition." Lou says: "For steady smoking I pick Camels. They're so mild they never get my 'wind' or my nerves."

"THEY DON'T GET YOUR WIND" ATHLETES SAY

So mild, athletes smoke as many as they please—and that's real mildness!

Of course you want mildness in a cigarette. And the athletes—to whom "wind," healthy nerves, "condition" are vitally important—insist on mildness. Lou Gehrig, baseball's "Iron Man," says: "Camels are so mild they never get my 'wind.'"

George Barker, intercollegiate cross-country champion, says: "Camels are so mild, they don't cut my 'wind' in any way." Bobby Walthour, Jr., star of the six-day bike grinds, says: "I've got to have 'wind' in bike racing. For my cigarette I long ago chose Camels."

Tommy Armour, speaking for golf, Bruce Barnes for tennis, and Betty Bailey for the aquatic sports—all agree: "Camels don't get your 'wind.'"

What this mildness means to you!...It means you can smoke as many Camels as you please. Athletes say Camel's costlier tobaccos never disturb your nerves—never tire your taste—never get your "wind."

GOOD NEWS!

Most of the pleasant things in life are doubly pleasant when you're "in condition." That's why it's such good news to hear that Camel's costlier tobaccos are so mild you can smoke all you please. Athletes say Camels never get your "wind."

SO MILD YOU CAN SMOKE ALL YOU WANT!

Five Youths Recovering.

Rochester, N. Y., May 20 (AP)—Five youths were recovering today from immersion in the Genesee river and nearby Canadaigua Lake in two boat upsets which nearly cost them their lives. In the Genesee river three miles south of this city, two unidentified Boy Scout canoeists were rescued late yesterday when George [illegible], Jr., 25, Red Cross life guard, of Rochester, plunged from a passing motor boat and took the boys who were clinging to their overturned canoe to the river bank. The boys left without giving their names. Speedy work by Harold Logan, [illegible] drum-major of Canandaigua Academy band and champion baton twirler of the midwestern New York high school music zone, saved three youths after their sailboat capsized in a sudden gust of wind half a mile offshore in Canandaigua Lake.

The number of families on relief rolls in North Carolina declined 4.5 per cent in February as compared with January.

Butterfly Scarfs Flutter

Paris (AP)—Butterfly scarfs are a new trick in fashionable folderols for spring. They are made of black taffeta, designed to encircle the throat and stand out on one side in a big three-tiered butterfly bow at the side. Most of the bows are banded in a series of colors such as yellow, orange and flame, or leaf green and emerald.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

For honeymoon smartness—a jacket frock.
Diana Merwin

Whether the honeymoon includes a cruise, a motor trip or traveling by train, the sporty, yet practical jacket-frock ensemble makes a readily adaptable and stylish daytime costume, especially with the latest jacket of longer length as shown in the sketch above. This attractive jacket-frock outfit uses washable nubbed crepe in oyster white for the dress, while the jacket is fashioned of all over embroidered crash in the new Dubonnet red for effective contrast.

The sleeveless dress features an action back, high neckline with self-tie and large novel buttons for fastening. The belt is of self-material and the skirt uses several kick pleats across the front for free and unhampered walking.

The accompanying all over embroidered jacket is in fingertip length, with pointed revers, long sleeves and two patch pockets.

Note also the new hand bag she carries—it is of linen in Dubonnet red to match her jacket and linen footwear. This new bag is designed like a miniature satchel, with self handles through metal eyelets and slide fastener closing with metal ball ends. It is lined with white pique and the Dubonnet red is repeated in the fittings.

GLAZED QUILTED CHINTZ MAKES EVENING FROCK

London (AP)—One of the most remarkable models shown at the first summer dress parade this season was an evening frock of glazed quilted chintz. This material is likely to be used extensively, not only for dresses but for evening coats and short jackets.

Another show included evening frocks and coats of hand-blocked printed linen. Straps and belts were of dull silver set with semi-precious stones.

A WORD OF ADVICE TO THE WIVES IS SUFFICIENT

Of all the nooks and crannies attacked by marauding housewives during spring cleaning raids, one of the most important spots sometimes overlooked by the most alert of housekeepers is the family medicine cabinet.

To do the spring housecleaning job thoroughly, every careful housewife should check this important department of the household as carefully as any other place in the home, discarding all old bottles, the labels on which have become soiled or discolored through constant usage.

Don't take medicine from old bottles without labels. Careful housewives will not allow bottles to remain in the medicine cabinet unless they are properly labeled as to their contents. Especially is this true of mothers when there are children in the home.

Make your housecleaning efforts complete, don't place your seal of approval on your spring cleaning until the medicine cabinet has been changed from a gathering place for old prescription bottles, empty tooth paste tubes, old tooth brushes, and other odds and ends, to a neat, orderly place for all the toilet and medicinal accessories for the entire family.

New York, May 20 (AP)—Both the WABC-CBS and the WJZ-NBC chains are to cut into the White House on Wednesday afternoon for a special netcast by Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt. When Kate Smith's CBS Wednesday Matinee is moved to a Thursday evening spot on WABC-CBS opposite the broadcast of Rudy Vallee next week it will be known as "Kate Smith's Hour." It will be run along lines almost identical to those followed in the matinee series.

Prof. Elmer Tidmarsh, head of the music department at Union College, will be presented in a short organ recital by WGY at 3:45 p. m., Wednesday, May 22. Playing on the chapel organ, Mr. Tidmarsh will offer "Shepherd Girl's Sunday" by Ball; "Adoration," by Borowski; Greig's "To Spring" and Drdla's "Souvenir."

Sunday School Officers Elected

The annual convention of the Hudson River Central Sunday School and Young People's Association held at Middletown, May 14, was one of the most interesting of its kind. The speakers were of the very best and the sessions were very helpful. The following officers were elected and appointed for 1935 and 1936:

President, Ed. L. Martin, Middletown; vice-president, Nelson Lewis, Kingston; secretary, Miss E. Brown, Maybrook; assistant secretary, Miss Dora H. Pratt, Kingston; treasurer, Mrs. Lillian Vanderhoff, Middletown; C. S. S. Director, Louis Strickland, Newburgh; C. Y. P. Director, William Van Wagoner, Port Jervis; C. C. Director, Miss Elizabeth Poteat, Warwick; registrar, Mrs. Harry Kiethe, Kingston; advisors, the Rev. Leslie Aubrey, Cold Spring, the Rev. Henry Alfke, Lowe Corners, the Rev. Mr. Schobalis, Middletown, the Rev. I. McCullom, Newburgh, the Rev. C. E. Brown, Kingston.

The association meets 1936 in Saugerties.

Once numbering 19,000 members, the Kansas G. A. R. reported the number slumped in 1935 to 247, with only about 50 able to attend state meetings. The "youngster" is H. I. Merrill, Wichita, who is 85.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It was to be expected that Garbo, as befits a semi-legendary figure, would move slowly toward the realization of a desire, slowly and with due majesty.

Now it appears that the next step in the billboarded progress of the Swedish actress will be "Garbo Dances," an inevitable sequel to "Garbo Talks" and "Garbo Smiles."

In "Anna Karenina" Greta will dance. In two previous films she has portrayed a dancer and has not danced. In "Mata Hari" one saw Garbo dance, true, but the Garbo rhythmics were supplied by a young woman who since has become something of a screen personage in her own right, June Knight. In "Grand Hotel" Greta was a famous dancer, but except for a light fluttering around her room, done by Garbo and no double, she was not required to demonstrate her lightness of foot.

Does A Mazurka

As "Anna Karenina" Greta does a mazurka. As usual, the studio had a dancing double ready. Francesca Braggiotti (Mrs. John Lodge) was to serve as Garbo's dancing alter ego in the long shots, just as June Knight had in "Mata Hari." But Garbo had said already she would do this number in person. She had taken lessons in the mazurka, and she would dance.

Her instructor was Chester Hale, dance director. Hale had not met Garbo before. He was nervous, he says, while he awaited her arrival for the first lesson.

She arrived, suddenly looming in his doorway, wearing slacks and a sweater. Hale's pianist he had concealed by moving the piano to the wall. That was to insure Garbo the privacy she is supposed to crave.

"I am Miss Garbo," Hale quotes her. "What shall I do?"

"Let's go to work," he said.

Greta shed sweater and slacks and was ready, in shorts and blouse.

'True Dancer's Foot'

Hale, who like Garbo works for Metro, expresses himself as impressed with her dancing ability. His first impression, he says, was of "her absolutely open mind and her frank simplicity." As she progressed with her first lesson she lost her "evident shyness" and shortly was attacking the steps with "tremendous enthusiasm and intelligence."

He has many flattering things to say about Garbo's dancing, including this:

"She has the true dancer's foot—perfectly beautiful, slim and as finely shaped as her hands. She has a beautiful arch and a well-pointed toe."

And this:

"In my opinion, had she studied dancing seriously, she would have reached great heights as a dancer. . . ."

And so—the Garbo world is waiting.

PREVIEWED

Today

Broadway: "Reckless". Jean Harlow of the white locks and William Powell of the smooth manner work jointly in this vehicle that starts slowly, gathers speed as it goes along, and climaxes in a whirlwind finish, bringing to mind the true story of a Broadway torch singer and her tragic love affair with the son of a wealthy southern family. The movie tells of a show girl with clever dancing feet and a husky voice who marries a millionaire weakling. The parents and friends of the boy forsake him when he marries one below his class and the boy suicides, leaving the former show girl with a baby and a blackened reputation. From then on, William Powell proves his calibre by straightening things out so she finds the happiness she seeks. The show contains several lively songs, some well arranged dance numbers, and a smooth working cast that seems to know all the answers. Directed by Victor Fleming, the cast features Franchot Tone, May Robson, Ted Healy and Nat Pendleton. Smart, sophisticated drama that makes the most of a tawdry story.

Orpheum: "The Last Gentleman." George Arliss scores again in this story of an eccentric old fellow who is unable to decide who will get his money when he passes on to glory. A lot of people would enjoy helping him make up his mind but he is wise to those who grasp after his fortune and the money schemers are beaten at the finish of the play. Many laughs are to be found in this show and Edna May Oliver is also well cast in a featured part. Selected short offerings complete the program.

Kingston: "George White's Scandals." A bright, sparking musical treat is being offered at the Kingston in the latest edition of Mr. White's celebrated Scandals. This one is different from all the rest because it is free from questionable dialogue and off color scenes. In fact it's good clean fun from start to finish as it tells the story of a singing team, discovered in a tank town by Mr. White. He sends them up the ladder to fame, a fame which goes to their heads and it takes several hard knocks to make them find the ground under their feet again. The comedy is supplied by Ned Sparks, the dance arrangements are exquisite, the chorus is a bevy of loveliness, and the work of Alice Faye, James Dunn, Lyda Roberti, Arline Judge, Cliff Edwards and George White leaves little to be desired. Little Eleanor Powell, new to the screen, will amaze you with her tap dancing. It's so perfect it doesn't seem possible. Good entertainment.

Proper Housing For Motor Cars Sound Economy

Rusty automobile fenders, deteriorated tops, and other reasons for unnecessary repair bills often may be traced to damp and poorly ventilated garages, according to the Federal Housing Administration, which is insuring modernization credits made by private financial institutions.

Considerable economic loss occurs as a result of poorly designed and improperly built garages. When built on low ground and not drained it is practically impossible to keep the garage dry even when a good floor has been laid. Many garages also do not have sufficient windows or louvers for light and ventilation. The result is that when a car which has been exposed to rain, sleet, or snow is driven into the garage and the garage closed up tightly a very humid condition results that becomes especially serious when the sun's rays beat down directly on an uninsulated roof. This hot, humid condition in a garage readily causes decay and rust.

The warm weather of April and May is an excellent time in which to condition the garage with a dry floor, walls, and roof and for the installation of windows and ventilators.

While repairing and painting the garage and otherwise getting it into suitable condition it is also a good idea to install running water and artificial light. A heating pipe from the central heating unit in the house to the garage, or a gas-pipe extension, so that the garage can be heated during the severe winter months, may be laid in the trench made for the water pipe, thereby saving expense which would result from separate installations.

HOUSING PROGRAM IMPROVES BUSINESS

Phoenix, Ariz.—A concern here that handles a well-known national brand of electric equipment reported recently to the state director of the Federal Housing Administration that it had been forced to move into much larger quarters in order to handle the volume of business which has grown out of better housing activity. It was also necessary to increase the employed personnel of the concern, it is reported.

A bank here has also employed two full-time men to handle Federal Housing loans exclusively. The volume of work has been so large that the bank was forced to tear out a partition in order to enlarge the quarters of this division and will soon employ a third man in this department.

Safety Locks Advisable For Summer Home

When conditioning the summer cabin or cottage, or constructing a new one for relaxation and enjoyment during the summer months, it is advisable to install heavily constructed storm sash for all windows so that the cabin can be securely locked to prevent forced entry when the cabin is not being used.

Hinges should be installed so that screws are concealed when the shutters are closed. Bolts or other fastenings that cannot be easily removed are advisable. Hooks, hasps, sliding bolts, or other fastenings can be used for locking the shutters tightly from the inside when they are closed.

Iron bars or other protection make basement windows burglar-proof, and a substantial lock may be installed in the door leading from the first floor to the basement. Exterior doors should be provided with good locks; and, if there are panes of glass in them which can be broken, it is an excellent idea to provide heavily constructed storm doors which can be locked securely.

Credits for modernizing and constructing summer cabins and cottages are available through private financial institutions which are approved by and cooperating with the Federal Housing Administration, which is insuring such credits under the National Housing Act.

FLOWER BOXES BEAUTIFY HOMES

The warm days of spring offer a splendid opportunity for the home owner to build attractive flower boxes in windows and sun parlors and on porches.

These may be painted a bright color to harmonize with their surroundings and then filled with rich dirt in which numerous flowering plants may be grown. Spring is an excellent time for flower-box planting because of favorable climatic conditions. Charming and beautiful effects may be obtained with flower boxes. In addition, flowers are thus made available for all occasions during the long season before winter returns.

Flower boxes built and installed as a permanent part of the house come under provision of the modernization credit plan of the Federel Housing Administration.

Japan's aluminum producers have an annual output of about 5,000 tons.

Tucson, Ariz.—The credit-reporting association here reported recently that they are 3 to 4 days behind in making reports and have been forced to put on several new employes to handle the increased volume of business due to better housing activity.

PAINT SALES SHOW GAINS IN 3 MONTHS

Washington, D. C.—Paint, varnish and lacquer sales figures for the first quarter of 1935 showed appreciable increases over the same period last year, according to information given the Federal Housing Administration by the National Paint, Varnish, and Lacquer Association.

The figures, showing percentages of increase, indicated marked improvement in both industrial and retail dealer sales and reflected improvement in the automotive industry. A general industrial expansion and retail business increases, due largely to the modernization program of the Federal Housing Administration, according to a representative of the association, were also indicated.

The comparative figures:

Total sales reported by 586 establishments: 1934, $61,409,630; 1935, $70,749,836 — increase, 15.2 per cent.

Total industrial sales: 1934, $18,759,619; 1935, $22,500,219 — increase, 19.9 per cent.

Total industrial sales, comprising paint and varnish sales to industry and lacquer sales to industry, showed the following percentages of increase over 1934: Paint and varnish sales to industry, $12,773,915—increase, 22.3 per cent. Lacquer sales to industry, $5,985,704—increase, 14.9 per cent.

Trade sales of paint, varnish, and lacquer (344 establishments), 1934, $22,231,676; 1935, $25,856,487—increase, 14.9 per cent.

Unclassified sales (242 establishments), 1934, $20,418,335; 1935, $22,393,130—increase, 9.7 per cent.

The 22.3 per cent increase shown in industrial sales of paint and varnish was credited by an association spokesman to the recent expansion and building improvement programs instituted by many industries and to the increased use of quick-drying enamels in the automotive industry which come under this classification.

Lacquer sales increases were considered due to additional automotive activity. General trade sales, showing a 16.3 per cent increase over 1934, were said to be due to a great extent to the effect of the modernization and repair program of the Federal Housing Administration on the sales of retail paint outlets.

FAMILIES ENJOY SUNPORCH COMFORT

An open sunporch makes it possible for members of the family to enjoy the health-giving rays of the sun on warm spring days.

The porch can be erected on any side of the home, except the side having a northern exposure. A southern exposure is preferable. Permanent flower boxes built around the porch can be finished to harmonize with the color scheme of the home, or they may be in gay, complementary colors. Contrasting colors add a note of cheer and charm.

A sunporch may be added to any home with a loan obtained from an approved lending agency and insured by the Federal Housing Administration.

No Defaults

Denver, Colo.—The Denver National Bank has made 308 loans for modernization credit under the National Housing Act to date, totaling $125,000, without a single default. Ed Zoller Blanks Liberty For Kingston High, 14-0

Saturday's Victory First No-Hit Game in DUSO League History—Tom Maines Hits Five Out of Five, Including Two Homers—Jack Murphy Hits for Circuit Also.

There is a currently popular song entitled "Everything's Been Done Before." There was an exception to this, however, at the Fair Grounds Saturday afternoon when a young gentleman, wearing a baseball suit of Kingston High School and pitching his first full game for the Kissmen, pitched the first no-hit, no-run game in the history of the DUSO League. His name is Ed Zoller and he accomplished this feat by pitching a beautiful 14-0 shutout over Liberty High School.

In reaching the goal of all good pitchers, that of hurling a no-hit game, Zoller's pitching was as perfect as will probably be seen in the DUSO League for some time to come. As the game progressed he got better, rather than weakening. In the last five innings, the 15 Liberty men that faced him went down in order, three in each inning. During the entire course of the game only 30 men faced him, only three more than the 27 players a pitcher would have to face in a perfect nine-inning contest.

Only five Liberty men reached first base, none of these getting to second. Two of these reached first on the two Kingston errors, one on a fielder's choice, one on a walk and the other being hit by Zoller.

Zoller's control was the top. He fanned 12 men, only three less than half of the 30 men that he faced. He hit one man in the fourth inning and issued only one base on balls. Only three Liberty men were able to hit the ball out of the infield.

Zoller's Rise to Glory

Bud Zoller's rise to occupy the foremost niche in the DUSO League baseball hall of fame has been meteoric to say the least. Until Saturday he had never started in a DUSO League contest and had pitched in only two others before that in relief roles. In the Newburgh game a week ago he came to the relief of Lou Glenn in the seventh inning and in the two and a third innings that he pitched in that contest he didn't allow a hit. In the Middletown game last Wednesday he pitched the last four innings, and was nicked for six of the Middies 11 runs. Before Saturday that was the extent of his DUSO pitching. In just one week he has risen from an obscure relief pitcher to score DUSO history by pitching the first no-hit game ever to be pitched in the DUSO League since the league was organized in the winter of 1927.

From the fifth inning on, when a no-hit game was in sight, the suspense was terrific. The score keepers tried to make Zoller believe that a hit had been already made against him, so that the prospect of getting a no-hit game would not unnerve him in the final innings. In the last inning each putout was greeted with a cheer from the spectators. When L. Kelly finally pop-flied out to Rhinehardt for the last out of the game, the players and the spectators both flocked around Zoller shaking his hand, slapping his back and offering him their congratulations.

Maines Hits Two Homers

If Zoller had not pitched a no-hitter, the name of Tom Maines would have been glorified, for he succeeded in getting five hits out of five trips to the plate, two of them being home runs and the other three being singles. To add to the already spectacular performances Jack Murphy, Kingston captain, also hit a home run.

Tommy Maines, the Rondout outfielder, with his batting percentage of 1,000 for Saturday, gave the best offensive performance to date. Although we have no statistics to prove it, this too, is probably a DUSO record. Besides getting five of Kingston's 11 hits he scored four of the Maroon team's runs. His first homer was scored in the second inning on his first trip to the plate with the bases empty. He hit the ball sending it over the left field fence. His second homer was hit in the seventh inning also with the bases empty. Maines parked this homer in almost the same place on the outside of the left field fence.

Murphy's Circuit Clout.

Jack Murphy's homer was of the freak variety. Ordinarily it would have been a single. It all happened in the sixth inning when he was the first man up. He hit the ball to left field where the ball hit the hill upon which is the left field fence. The ball hit the hill about ten feet inside of the fence, and took a lusty hop over the fence, clearing the barrier by inches. The score keepers accredited Murphy with a homer.

L. Kelly did the twirling for Liberty with poor success. He allowed 11 hits and four walks. He whiffed six men. Considering the poor support from his teammates, Kelly got along fairly well until the eighth inning when he was bombarded for six runs.

Sidelines.

Flowers to the other Kingston players for their fine support to Zoller. Roses to Harder for his diving one hand catch of Scavalone's liner to left in the sixth inning. This was the only ball that looked like it would be a hit. Also a pinch of [illegible] to Umpire Axtell on his decision that Murphy's hit in the fourth was foul.

The hit in reference in the above sentence was a line drive by Murphy down the third base line. From all outward appearances the ball when it went past third was fair afterward curving into foul territory. Two Kingston runners that were on the baselines at the time of the hit had already scampered over home plate when Umpire Axtell called the ball foul. At the time of his decision the umpire was behind the pitcher's box. This decision evoked plenty of booing from the spectators.

It's a shame that there couldn't have been a larger crowd on hand to see Zoller pitch his historic game. He deserved it. A scant 250 saw the game.

"Home-run" Baker of major league fame got his monicker from hitting two home runs in one game. He has nothing on Tom Maines who in addition hit three singles.

Maines now leads in home run hitting for the locals, having hit three so far this season. He hit one in the Middletown game. Before the Middie contest he hadn't gotten a hit. Murphy is next in the home run hitting with two.

The team has two games on the slate for this week, meeting Ellenville Tuesday afternoon at Ellenville in a DUSO game, and Saugerties on Friday.

Cast your eyes long and heartily on the two zeros in the Liberty box-score. You probably will not see them again for a long time. Not if the law of averages works out.

Liberty is by no means an "easy" team. They are considered about the average as far as high school teams go.

Zoller is the first Kingston player to earn his baseball letter. Under the provisions, a pitcher has to pitch nine innings to earn a letter, while the other players have to play one more than half of the innings of ball played during the season.

Seneca Indians Scalp The Diers All Stars

Mgr. Charlie Diers was completely humiliated Sunday afternoon at Block Park when his All Stars were dimmed by the pitching of Ky Embree and the slugging of the Kingston Senecas in a six inning contest, the Indians scalping the Diersmen 16 to 2.

Embree fanned seven of the Diers and allowed but five hits.

Mgr. Purvis led the Seneca hitters with two doubles and a single, while Hanley had three singles; Scherer and Murdock two singles each; Embree a triple and a single and Lamb a triple and a double and scoring four times.

The rest of the Senecas collected a hit apiece to bring the total of hits off the delivery of Toddy Uhl, pitching for Diers, up to 17.

Mgr. Purvis booked the Diersmen only because Mgr. Diers contended his All Stars were superior to the Indians. Yesterday Mr. Diers learned his mistake.

Batteries—Senecas, Embree and Murdock; Diers, Uls and Dulin.

NEWBURGH FREE ACADEMY BLANKS ELLENVILLE HIGH

Newburgh Free Academy defeated Ellenville High School in a 10-4 DUSO game played at Ellenville Friday. Decker pitched good ball for Ellenville, striking out ten men and allowing but four hits, but his support was the raggedest kind of ragged, nine errors being charged against his teammates in the seven inning game. Atkins, pitching for Newburgh allowed but three hits and struck out four men. Newburgh scored three runs in the first inning, on as many errors. Four more of her runs were made in the last inning, on three hits.

Tony's On Top Again —By Pap

SPORT SLANTS.

The grand little veteran of the ring, Tony Canzoneri, easily proved himself the best of the present crop of lightweights when he defeated Lou Ambers in 15 rounds and earned his fourth title. Canzoneri also has held the featherweight, lightweight and junior welterweight crowns.

Tony regained the championship he lost to Barney Ross in 1933 after holding it almost three years. There may be some question of the New York Boxing Commission's right arbitrarily to designate the Canzoneri-Ambers bout as for the title but most ring fans will accept Canzoneri as a deserving champion.

Tony was a fine champion before Ross took the crown from him and, with Barney out of the lightweight picture, will dignify the throne again until someone takes it from him.

Not a Single Mistake.

In scoring over the youthful Ambers, Canzoneri fought a well nigh perfect fight. He didn't make a single mistake in the entire 15 rounds and never forced his aging legs beyond their limit.

In his dressing room after the bout, the champion laughed and joked about his legs.

"Those legs were good for 40 rounds," he said. "Why, I actually laughed to myself along about the seventh round because I knew that a lot of folks were worrying about them."

In his well-conceived plan of battle Tony stressed the importance of conserving his energy and did only what pedaling was absolutely necessary.

He made Ambers fight just the way he wanted him to. For the most part Tony stood in the center of the ring and just kept turning enough to meet the whirling advances of Ambers. His tactics made Lou do all the leg work and let him conserve his precious leg power.

Not only did Canzoneri outsmart Ambers but he almost completely disarmed the youngster with his cold, confident manner.

A couple of years ago Ambers acted as Canzoneri's sparring partner, so the latter took full advantage of the situation and shook Lou's confidence by treating the youngster's best efforts with utter disdain. Tony offered his chin as a target but even then Ambers could not reach him.

First to Regain Title.

After some 127 bouts stretching over a period of 10 years Canzoneri has earned a unique place in the history of the lightweight class. He is the first 135-pounder to regain his championship.

Tony weighed about 85 pounds when he first laced on a pair of gloves and set out to make his mark in the amateur ranks in New Orleans. Fighting as a flyweight he was forced to give away plenty of weight and reach. Four years of experience in the amateurs and Tony decided to make his bid against the boys who fought for money.

Canzoneri isn't exactly certain of the number of bouts he has taken part in but he does feel that from each effort he took something in the way of knowledge.

North Rondouters Lose Close Game to Poughkeepsie, 3-1

An early lead gave the Reynolds-Plymouth nine a 3-1 victory over the North Rondout Social Club Sunday afternoon at Hasbrouck Park when O'Shea belted out a homer in the first inning with a man on base. Final score of the contest was 3-1. A large turnout of fans was on hand to witness it.

The Plymouths made their other run in the second inning. Joey Manello, making his debut for the Socials, yielded only three hits, including the homer by O'Shea. Dick Simpson, transformed from a catcher into a pitcher, relieved Manello in the fifth. He held the Poughkeepsians to one hit and fanned six batsmen.

The N. R. S. third sacker, Jimmy Turck, bolstered his batting average by smacking the pill three times out of four tries. The North Rondouters as a team outhit the visitors 6-4, but could not overcome the early advantage built by O'Shea's homer.

Kingston High at Ellenville Tuesday

Tuesday afternoon at Ellenville, the Kingston High baseball team will play Ellenville High in its fourth DUSO League game. The game is called for four o'clock.

Little is known of Ellenville's strength. Judging on past performances they are probably nothing to rave about. A year ago in a seven inning contest with virtually the same outfit Kingston walloped Ellenville by a score of 21-0.

In tomorrow's contest Kingston will use the same lineup that she used in the history making no-hit game on Saturday against Liberty, with the exception of the pitcher. Ed Zoller, who will get well deserved rest. Lou Glenn will be on the mound for the Maroon team.

Zoller's performance on Saturday is easily the standout individual baseball performance since the DUSO League was organized, and may be for quite a few years to come. The nearest a Kingston pitcher ever came to a no-hit game before was in 1929 when in a seven inning game Charlie Timm blanked Roscoe High by a 13-0 score, allowing only two hits both of which were hit in the last inning.

On Friday Kingston will journey to Saugerties for a non-league game with Saugerties High. That game is also called for four o'clock.

McLean Stars As Wilbur Wins, 10-9

Sunday afternoon on the Wilbur Commons the Wilbur Dodgers won out in a hard fought contest, coming from behind to win 10-9 in the tenth inning behind the sensational pitching and hitting of "Bud" McLean. McLean relieved Fitzpatrick in the fifth inning and struck out 14 Royals, allowing but two hits and two unearned runs. He also featured with the stick, hitting a double, triple and single. He won his own game in the tenth by driving two men home with a double to right field. Spitzer also pitched a fine game. Although hit hard he struck out 18 Dodger batsmen.

U. P. A. Takes Close One from St. Remy, 4-3

The U. P. A. nine combed the delivery of Emil Bock for 11 safeties Sunday to defeat Sam Barnett's St. Remy nine 4-3 at St. Remy. After battling for six innings at a 1-1 tie, the Provisioners notched a run in the seventh and put across the winning run in the eighth.

St. Remy staged a desperate rally in the eighth but could only get across two runs.

Tresaloni went the route for the U. P. A. and yielded only five hits and fanned five. Five of the U. P. A. batters got two hits apiece. Hank Krom socked a single and a double for the losers.

On Tuesday evening at Hasbrouck Park the U. P. A. will meet the Maroon All Stars at 6:30 o'clock.

Forsts Lose by 9-6 At Saugerties Field

"Just another ball game we threw away", said Manager Herb Mills of the Forst Packers today when he was asked how the Butchers made out against Chief Richter's club at Saugerties Sunday.

Final score of the game was 9-6 in favor of the [illegible], making their second victory of the season. Home runs by Bill Finger and Jimmy Martin featured the duel.

"We made seven errors", Mills said, "behind the pitching of Bill Thomas". Thomas had eight strikeouts and allowed 10 hits. The Forsts collected nine singles off of [illegible]. He too had eight strikeouts.

Denny Benjamin, Saugerties boy, playing with the Forsts, featured in the hitting attack of the Packers, connecting twice out of three tries.

Kingston High Loses Track Meet With N. Y. M. A. By 62-33

Kingston High School's track squad travelled to New York Military Academy at Cornwall on Saturday to absorb their worst shellacking of the season, the Cadets taking them over 62 to 33. The latter's supremacy was clearly demonstrated both in the field and on the cinder path. Aided by the triple victory of Ward in the shot-put, high jump, and discus, the Cadets took the field events by a 28-16 tally, while Moffet's double in both sprints added to his team's 34-17 margin in the track events. Ward also captured a second in the quarter mile, to garner a total of 18 points, besides running anchor on Cornwall's victorious relay quarter. Moffet, with 10 points, resulting from his 100-yard and 220-yard victories, was second in the individual scoring.

"Fran" Charlton, Kingston's mile ace, turned in his second win of the season in that event, finishing in 4:51.2 to clip seven seconds off his 4:58 performance at Poughkeepsie two weeks ago, where he finished a close second. Charlton, striding smoothly all the way, lengthened his stride to gain a sizeable lead on the last lap of the one-third mile oval, and held the lead intact in spite of the home stretch sprint of Byrnes, who took second for the Cadets.

Hart Runs Spectacular Race

Joe Hart also chalked up his second victory for the Maroon in the half-mile, running the most spectacular race of the day. Hart came from behind to catch Chase almost at the finish, breaking the tape inches ahead of his opponent. Only an observer directly at the finish could have distinguished the winner. Time was 2:14, identical with his performance at Middletown.

Davis took an easy first in the pole vault at eight feet, nine inches. When Kachigan of Kingston and Chambers of the Academy went out at that height to tie for second place, Davis was still coasting up to the bar in his sweatsuit and clearing by a wide margin. Loughran did not enter the vault, due to a restriction on the number of entries.

Bill Eagan of Kingston took second in the shot-put with a 40-foot, nine inch heave which was one inch behind Ward's toss of 40 feet, 10 inches. Pennullo of Cornwall captured the broad jump with a leap of 19 feet, 10½ inches, far beyond Kingston's best efforts. Captain Charlie Boice of the Maroon took third in the discus, while failing to place in the shot-put, turning in two very disappointing performances. He has been off form in competition during the past two meets. The Cadets' relay team of Ward, Moffet, Templeton and Brooks maintained the six year supremacy of the Academy in that event by widely outdistancing Kingston's quartet. Shoemaker and Wilber lost ground on the opening legs, Mike Weiner's injured ankle slowed him down on the third leg, and Styles recovered but little of the ground lost on the sprint home.

Other Kingston men who placed were Wilber, third, in the 440; Styles, third, 100, and second, 220; Morehouse, third, 880; Van Aken, third, shut-put; Caunitz, third, broad jump; Saxe, second, and Egan, third, high jump.

The track meet was but one feature of the athletic program at New York Military Academy Saturday. The Cadets were competing against St. Paul's of Baltimore in a lacrosse match at one end of the huge athletic field, while the tennis and baseball varsities were also playing home games. The visiting teams were shown around the campus and were guests of the Academy at dinner in the large mess hall. Following the meet, the squad plunged into the large and well-equipped pool for a swim.

Summary of Events

100 yards—Won by Moffet, C.; Brooks, C., second; Styles, K., third. Time, 11.00.

220 yards—Win by Moffet, C.; Styles, K., second; Brooks, C., third. Time, 24.3.

Kingston Tennis Club Scores Second Straight Win Over Bard

Playing its regulars in the singles and substituting its second squad in the doubles, the Kingston Tennis Club scored its second straight win of the season Saturday afternoon on the Twaalfskill courts when the locals beat down the white jacketed varsity of Bard College by the lopsided score of 7 to 2. Although the collegians played gamely, the more experienced forces of Kingston kept the Bard players on the defensive all afternoon with the issue never in doubt.

Stan Hancock, Bob Herzog, Nick Fowler, Ed Strong and Johnny Burgevin all walked through the singles without the loss of a set, and Herzog and Strong, in their first matches of the year, played air tight tennis to rout their opponents with but the loss of a game apiece. Bob Hancock was the only Kingston player to lose, dropping a two hour match to Balttinger of Bard 15-13, 6-4.

In the doubles, Osterhoudt and Burgevin trounced the ranking Bard team in straight sets while Merrill and Brigham of Kingston went down in three sets to the second varsity doubles combination of Bard. Bon Joy and Bill Fuller came from behind to win in three sets over the third Bard team in a match that saw Fuller at his best in his first appearance with the Kingston Tennis Club.

Next Saturday the Kingston Tennis Club will play the Poughkeepsie Tennis Club in a match that should be one of the closest and most interesting of the year. The Poughkeepsie outfit has a strong, well balanced organization and is one of the finest tennis teams in the state. With Randall Rose of the locals in the starting lineup next Saturday, the Kingston team will carry its full strength against the Poughkeepsie club in the hope of registering its third straight victory.

Summary of Saturday's matches:

K. H. S. Tennis Team Trims Staten Island

The Kingston High School tennis varsity squad put in two hours of practice at Forsyth Park Saturday, while they waited for the Staten Island public parks champions to show up. The extra drill did them no harm however, as they took the visitors into camp, when they eventually arrived, 4 to 2.

Kingston won both doubles and captured two of the four singles.

G. Hull was Staten Island champion last year, but has not reached his top form this year owing to ill health and had to go three sets to defeat Svirsky in the fourth singles.

The summaries:

T. Eccleston, S. I., won over R. Hasbrouck, K. 6-1, 6-4.

Schumacher Red"s Jinx

Although a couple of seasons ago it might have been a simple matter to become a "jinx" to the Cincinnati Reds, Hal Schumacher has carried it so far it threatens to become a serious affair now that the Reds are heading toward better things.

Since he broke into the National League as a regular in 1932, Schumacher has never lost a game to the Reds and his string of triumphs, now going into its fourth season, has stretched to 13 games with a tie as the only interruption. The 13th triumph yesterday was almost as shaky an affair as the drawn battle two weeks ago.

After building up an early lead, the Giants saw it fade away when a homer by Alex Kampouris started a sixth inning flurry that tied the score at 5-5 and they had to go ten innings to win out, 6-5.

The victory enabled the New Yorkers to win the series 2-1 and increase their lead over Brooklyn to two games again.

The Dodgers took their second straight licking from Pittsburgh, 9 to 6, when a four-run flurry against young Harry Eisenstat in the eighth settled the swinging match. Brooklyn retained second place, however, as the Chicago Cubs yielded to the Phillies for the second time, 3 to 1, on Lou Chioza's homer with two aboard and Syl Johnson's fine relief hurling.

Cardinals Crowd Chicago

Dizzy Dean led the Cardinals to a 7 to 3 triumph over the Braves that placed them just a half game behind Chicago. In addition to pitching a seven-hit game, he belted a single with the bases full to climax the game-winning four-run rally in the eighth.

After one day in third place in the American League, the Cleveland Indians returned to second place with a 1 to 0 victory over the Yankees in the day's keenest battle in the junior circuit.

Walter Stewart, making his first Cleveland start, got the better of an eleven-inning mound argument with Charley Ruffing when Red Rolfe and Bill Dickey collided going after Lou Berger's bunt and the hit paved the way for the only run.

Chicago's White Sox continued to pull ahead with a 6 to 5 triumph over Boston although "Silent" John Whitehead, rookie hurling sensation, failed for the first time to go the route. He was belted out in a four-run spurt in the ninth but got credit for his sixth straight victory.

The Detroit Tigers took the odd game and fifth place from Washington, slamming out 19 hits and a 16 to 6 victory while the Athletics consolidated their hold on seventh by trimming the Browns for the third straight time, 6 to 5, with Doc Cramer's seventh-inning homer providing the winning run.

Hercules Bow, 6-4, To Napanoch Nine

Sunday afternoon on the Napanoch diamond, the Hercules Powdermen dropped a hard fought, interesting 6-4 contest to the Napanoch Grahams, before an overflow crowd.

Lefty Quick was on the mound for the Grahams, and although pounded for ten hits by the Powdermen, had the game under control at all times but the ninth inning, when the Hercules scored all but one of their runs. Jom Condon made his debut as a Hercules moundsman, and pitched beautiful ball for the three innings he was on the mound. Misore, who relieved him, also pitched very well, but was the victim of several costly misplays by his teammates.

Napanoch scored one run in the fourth and sixth innings and four in the fifth. In that inning, hits by Wynkoop, several errors and Wood's double down the third base line accounted for the quartet of runs. The Powdermen scored in the fifth inning, and threatened to walk off with the game in the ninth, when Quick weakened and allowed hits by Quest, Cullum, Niles and Misore. This, mixed with a couple of errors, accounted for three Hercules runs. However, a double play wiped out runners and Cullum was retired for the final out, sliding into third.

Huron Indians Win Over Berardis, 4-3

The Huron Indians took a 4-3 decision from the Berardi A. C. of East Kingston Sunday at Kristic Field, Rosendale, before a crowd of enthusiastic fans.

In the sixth inning the Berardis tied the score, but the Indians came through with a run in the seventh and stayed in front behind the relief pitching of Bill Hornbeck. He relieved Shea in the sixth and held the visitors hitless for the remainder of the game.

Leading the hitters were Gil Kelder and Glenn with two apiece.

Next Sunday at Kristic Field the Hurons will play the U. P. A.

Kaslich A. C. Takes Overtime Game, 6-4

Sunday at Quarryville, the Kaslich A. C. registered a 6-4 victory over the Saugerties V-8's in an 11 inning game that saw the Billiardists collect 14 hits off the delivery of Carnwright. "Puck" Davis, Kaslich hurler, held the Fords to three hits, but a few wild streaks let the V's stay in the running.

Jimmy "Babe" Voelker showed the way with the bat, collecting three hits for the Kaslich club. Tiano, Flanagan and Garrity and Davis hit two apiece.

With the score tied in the eighth, the teams had to go two extra innings to decide the issue, the Kaslichs registering their two winning runs in the eleventh frame.

Kingston High Trims Tannersville In Golf

On Saturday, May 18, Kingston High School's varsity golf team, represented by the four-man squad of Heitzman, Holcomb, Benjamin and Murray, defeated a Tannersville High School quartet on the links of the Twaalfskill Country Club, 11 to 7. The match was played over the eighteen hole route. The players paired off in a series of twosomes, the winner of the first round, the winner of the second round, and the winner of the total in each twosome gaining a point. Two foursomes were made by pairing the Maroon's first and second ranking players against Tannersville's best two golfers, and Kingston's number three and four men against Tannersville's third and fourth ranking men. Points were scored in each foursome as in the twosomes, making six matches in all for a total of eighteen points. The contest was in reality closer than the score indicates, since the result in each of the first two twosomes and in the first foursome in every case depended upon the winner of the eighteenth hole, and the result was in doubt up to the final flag. Fred Holcomb turned in the best medal card, with a score of 88, 18 above par for the course. The other medal scores were: Heitzman, 91; Benjaman, 92; Gressick, 92; Glennon, 92; Valk, 97; Murray, 100; and Yager, 104.

The Maroon has scheduled a return match with Tannersville on Saturday, June 1. On Wednesday, May 29, the Kingston squad will travel to Poughkeepsie for a return match with the Bridge City team, and on this Saturday they hope to meet the team of Spencer's Business School, although this match has not yet been definitely arranged.

The detailed results of Saturday's match are:

Heitzman, K. defeated Gressick, T. 2½, ½.

Holcomb, K. defeated Glennon, T. 2½, ½.

Benjamin, K. defeated Valk, T. 2, 1.

Yager, T. defeated Murray, K. 2½, ½.

Heitzman and Holcomb, K. defeated Gressick and Glennon, T. 3, 0.

Valk and Yeager, T. defeated Benjamin and Murray, K. 2½, ½.

Jury Holds Fish Inquest

There is a jury of eight "good men and true" in Birmingham whose duty is to hold inquests on—fish, says Pearson's Weekly.

They get busy when it is suspected that fish consigned to the city fish market from various ports is "on the turn." If the fish is bad it is condemned by these men, who are called the fish jury. They act as a protection to the general public, and by inspecting doubtful fish they also render service to the fish merchants and the city's official fish inspector.

Lured Men From Water

Older than Rome, Sorrento in Italy, goes back to the days of Greek mythology. A Phoenician colony older than Tyre, it was here the sirens dwelt who lured men from the water. This gave the town its name—Syrentum, then Surrentum and Sorrento. Its power of attracting men, and women too, in these modern days, has never been lost. It has only changed its motive and given life for death, and joy for sorrow.

Joe Kelly Honored, Horse Named for Him

Rodeo Headquarters, 588 Broadway, Kingston, N. Y., May 18, 1935.
To the Editor,
Daily Freeman,
Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sir: The management of the J. E. Ranch Rodeo wishes to take this opportunity of thanking the heads of all departments of the Daily Freeman for their cooperation, the courtesy extended to us and the hospitable reception always accorded when we had occasion to call at the Freeman office.

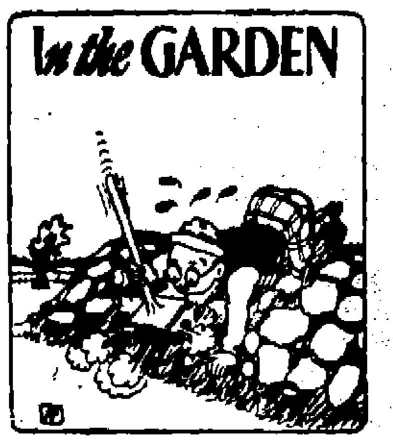
One of the greatest honors bestowed to anyone in the west is to care enough about them to name a horse after them, that may not seem much to an easterner but to the man of the west it is considered a big thing.

On last Thursday night we had a christening of a new horse and we named him Joe Kelly after your Joe Kelly in the uptown office. Both Mr. Kelly and the horse seemed pleased. Again thanking you and trusting that I will have the pleasure of renewing acquaintences in the near future.

Very sincerely,
MAJOR GEO. W. SCOTT.
J. E. Ranch Rodeo.

Largest Chunk of Gold

The United States bureau of mines says that so far as it knows the largest piece of gold ever found was a chunk from a deep mine in Chile, weighing 4,000 troy ounces, or 330 avoirdupois pounds. The largest loose piece was a Beyer and Holterman nugget found at Hill End, New South Wales, in 1872, weighing 630 avoirdupois pounds gross and containing 193 pounds net of gold.



Wall Gardens

A most effective and ornamental method of holding banks is the use of a rock wall. This is made without mortar, pockets between the stones being filled with earth. "Garden sense" must be employed in building such walls. The rows of soil tamped firmly behind and between them. It should be built with stones should be laid with some space between each stone, and good a slope. Irregularity adds to the attractiveness. For these wall gardens, most of the smaller rock plants and succulents are adaptable.

A Buying Guide

BEFORE you order dinner at a restaurant, you consult the bill-of-fare. Before you take a long trip by motor car, you pore over road maps. Before you start out on a shopping trip, you should consult the advertisements in this paper. For the same reasons!

The advertising columns are a buying guide to you in the purchase of everything you need—including amusements! A guide that saves your time and conserves your energy; that saves useless steps and guards against false ones; that puts the s-t-r-e-t-c-h in family budgets.

The advertisements in this paper are so interesting, it is difficult to see how any one could overlook them . . . fail to profit by them. Just check with yourself and be sure that you are reading the advertisements regularly—the big ones and the little ones. It is time well spent . . . always.

Rodeo Moved Today For Hartford, Conn.

The J. E. Ranch rodeo left Kingston this morning at 5 o'clock by way of the West Shore railroad for Hartford, Conn., where it will play the latter part of the week.

Last night the cowboys drove the steers, calves and horses from the 156th Field Artillery Armory, where the rodeo played last week, to the West Shore and loaded them into a special car.

The job was watched by many spectators, who enjoyed watching the cowboys handle the animals in expert manner.

The entire troupe that showed here will play at Hartford with the exception of Jack Jackson, who has procured a job at the Wallkill Medium Security prison stable. Several of his cowboy friends are there now, having quit the show business to work for Dr. Leo J. Palmer, superintendent.

Jackson, although comparatively young, has been in rodeos for 12 years. Last night, after loading the J. E. Ranch stock, he visited the Kay Brothers Circus at the Kingston Fair Grounds, to chat with Buck Steele, western star, and his family with whom he is well acquainted.

SAYS CITIES AND VILLAGES SHOULD SHARE MOTOR TAXES.

All cities and villages of New York state should share directly in motor vehicle and motor fuel taxation. Such is the conclusion reached by Thomas J. Quinn of the Syracuse University School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, whose report of a study prepared for the Mayors' Conference was made public today.

Mr. Quinn finds that the major part of such taxes are paid by residents of cities. He also found that city taxpayers not only paid the entire cost of city streets, which is 42 per cent of the amount spent on all streets and highways, but that they also paid three-fourths of the cost of state and county highways and one-fourth of the cost of town roads.

Parent-Teacher Associations

Woodstock.

Woodstock, May 20.—As the P.-T. A. meeting on May 14 in the library was to be the last until fall, the most important business of the day was the election of new officers. Mr. Todd was re-elected as acting president; Mrs. G. Layman and Mrs. Ivan Summers were elected first and second vice presidents, respectively; Mrs. G. Schrader, Jr., secretary, and Mrs. Pearl Shultis as treasurer.

After the minutes of the last meeting were read and accepted, the treasurer submitted her report which showed a balance of $14.91. This report was accepted enthusiastically, for it showed more money than was expected. The recreation committee asked for money to pay a baseball coach for the summer. This money was voted and paid out. A letter from Mrs. A. H. Windram was read asking a small contribution from each P.-T. A. unit toward a gift for one of the Central Hudson officers. Money was voted for the contribution. A local unit report was filled out to be sent to Mrs. A. H. Windram of Port Ewen. After an informal discussion of what the P.-T. A. had accomplished this year the meeting adjourned until fall.

The regular meeting of the P.-T. A. of School No. 2 will be held Tuesday at 3:30 p. m. Officers for the year will be elected and installed. Members are asked to come out and meet their new officers.

Women's Federation Meetings Saturday

Two important meetings of the Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs were held on Saturday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A., the president, Mrs. Fred P. Luther, presiding.

At the executive committee meeting, following the routine business, $3 was donated to be divided equally in buying Legion poppies from the American Legion and The Veterans of Foreign Wars, this arrangement making it possible for all of the small amount they had to contribute to go to the organizations in our own city.

The sum of $15 was contributed to the Young Men's Christian Association to go toward their drive. The sum of $50—$40 from the general fund and $10 from the Public Health fund—was contributed to the Kingston Young Women's Christian Association, child of the Federation.

Mrs. Luther has appointed Dr. Elizabeth Moore Parsons, chairman of the Public Health Committee, following the death of Dr. Mary Gage-Day.

It was announced that Miss Helen Luther would gladly contribute her services in assorting, classifying and cataloguing the piano music given in memory of Mrs. Lillian Miller Hemstreet as a circulating library of music to be kept at the City Library and circulated from there as books are now circulated. The offer was accepted with thanks.

It was voted to hold another flower show next September and the date chosen and settled upon was September 6th.

As the Good Government Committee had been asked many times as to the comparative power of the mayor according to our present charter and according to the proposed charter, Mrs. Reed had passed on the question to Mayor Heiselman. His reply, in detail showed that the power in the hands of any mayor at the head of our city government as it is today or would be according to the new charter would be the same except for one very important feature. That is one that will greatly lessen his power according to the new charter as he will not be solely and alone responsible for the entire city budget as now, but "the making up of the budget will be in the hands of the Board of Estimate, composed of the mayor who is the executive head of the government, the commissioner of finance, who is the financial head, and the president of the Common Council, representing the legislative body of the city government."

The May open meeting or annual meeting of the Federation immediately followed the executive committee meeting. The secretary's report given by Mrs. Kemble and that of the treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Fraser, were accepted with thanks, and an auditing comittee, composed of Miss Osterhoudt and Miss Healy, reported the report and accounts of the treasurer to be correct.

Committee reports were given. Following that of the Good Government Committee Mrs. Luther told of conferring with the police department concerning the fact that in the shops in our city that buy old gold and silver, no record of those selling the gold and silver to the shopkeeper is kept and given to the police department as is done as a safeguard to the public in other cities. Even children may take gold or silver to be sold without any record of their name, so should the gold or silver have been stolen there is no way of checking up on the matter. Mrs. Luther had asked that an ordinance taking care of this menacing situation be passed.

Mrs. Graham in her report for the music committee expressed great satisfaction over the various concerts given during the past year, especially very recently, saying that she felt there was a new and more serious interest in the best music being created in our city.

Miss Healy, chairman of the membership committee, reported a membership of 91 individual members and five affiliated clubs. The Federation regretted the loss of nine individual members, five being erasures, two had died, one had moved away, one had resigned and one had not paid dues for a considerable period. It was with regret that the resignation of the Atharhacton Club had been accepted.

In reporting on the motion picture committee, Mrs. Luther told of the recent motion picture council meeting with the Rev. Mr. Goertz, presiding. The meeting adopted the fifteen-point plan of the National Federation of Women's Clubs. They also considered the payment of dues to the amount of $2 of each affiliated club or organization in their council to provide funds with which to carry on their work. There will be another meeting of the council on the evening of May 27 at the Y. M. C. A.

Following the report of the nominating committee, Mrs. G. Newton, chairman, the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Fred P. Luther; first vice president, Mrs. J. C. Fraser; second vice president, Mrs. Ward Brigham; recording secretary, Mrs. William Kemble; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Grover Lasher.

In order to keep abreast of the times in our city, it was voted to have a committee appointed to revise the constitution and by-laws of the Federation of Women's Clubs, the committee to be as follows: Mrs. A. Noble Graham, chairman; Mrs. C. N. Reed, the four presidents of the affiliated clubs, Mrs. A. Ray Powley and Mrs. Harry P. Van Wagenen.

After announcing the sale of the articles made by the blind of New York state in June, the meeting adjourned.

The Scouts of Troop 12 and their fathers and a few families, went on the annual troop hike, up Palenville mountain, on Sunday.

They started, in automobiles, from the Socony gas station on Broadway, about 12:30 noon, and drove to Palenville. There the boys and some of the fathers started to hike over Palenville mountain to North Lake camp site. The cars were driven around the mountain.

The hikers divided into two parties, one group going directly over the mountain, while the other group went over it, more indirectly. They met at the top of the mountain and joining forces, pushed on to North Lake State Park. The hike was about six miles in length and they reached their destination about 4:30 p. m.

Here the parents were waiting, with camp fires prepared. Supper was cooked in the open. After this, some of the adults went about a mile farther, to Artists' Point, where they had a wonderful view of the Hudson Valley and the surrounding country. This view took in three states and points from Lake Mohonk to Albany were easily seen.

The troop wants to heartily thank all of the fathers for their cooperation and hopes to have them participate again.

Some of the fathers who joined in the outing were Roger Loughran, Hubert Hoderath, Ralph Short, John Snyder, Egbert Boice, S. T. Beatty, Louis Braunstein, Clarence Dumm, Mr. Davis and Mr. Patchersky, also Scoutmaster Floyd Spencer and assistant Scoutmaster Lincoln Spencer.
